

SHORT X CHANGES

STADIUM GETS $100 PRESENT.

Max Fichtenbaum, executive secretary of the Texas Memorial Stadium Association, received a letter from J. Allen Kyle, president of the Harris County A. & M. Club, in which Mr. Kyle states that his organization has voted to donate $100.00 to the Stadium fund.—Daily Texan.

Life at Oxford is not very pleasant for the thirty-two American girls who are studying at the English institution.

"While there is not among Oxford undergraduates that feeling of resentment against women students which leads Cambridge men to smash the gates of the women's colleges and to stamp and groan when a woman enters a lecture room, yet their regard for the newcomers is far from kindly."

Professor H. T. Moore, psychologist and radicalist of Dartmouth College, announced the results of a series of radicalism tests conducted at Yale, Columbia and Dartmouth.

Professor Moore finds that the radical students "used their brains more quickly than conservative students of the same intelligence and from the same type of family." He also found that radicals were able to shake off old habits more quickly.

In most American colleges, there is too much feeling shown against radicalism by those in authority. Perhaps there is justification for some of their feeling, but in several well known instances student opinion has been set aside merely because it did not coincide with the aspirations of some of the ones who were vitally interested.

Vassar Referendum

To correct wild and distorted statements appearing in the daily press concerning the recent smoke referendum at Vassar (New Student of January 31) Miss Eleanor Dodge, president of the Students Association, makes the following announcement:

"No action of any kind yet been taken.

"The questionnaire is purely an expression of student opinion. It shows that a number of students are accustomed to smoking, but the assumption made by at least one newspaper that all of these students break the college rule is totally unfounded.

"Apparently the smoking rule is broken more than any other rule, but even so there are 1,100 students in Vassar and from this number only seventeen have been reported for smoking this year.

"Before the student assembly votes one way or the other, the Joint Committee of Faculty and Students will meet to discuss the advisability of changing the rule.

"If the assembly eventually votes to change the rule the action must be approved by the faculty to become effective."

It was recently rumored that a group of professors are to attempt to stage a classical revival. And now the perspicacious "Windmill" points with pride to an account of what may be the rise of a cult of sartorial medievalism. He alludes to the story of the three wise men from Princeton who recently visited President Coolidge. President Coolidge viewed with disapproval their flapping "Kollegiate Kut" trousers which dusted wide stretches of the White House floor as they walked about. He smilingly recommended suspenders as a remedy.—The New Student.

It is with keen enjoyment that this column is able to acquaint the readers with "Milo" Abercrombie's resolution to become our next colonel. "Corporal" Abercrombie has made a bid for this position by "ramming" himself four demerits for being non-regulation.

TWO OF ONE

Penn State Froth: George—Marry me and the world is mine. Georgette (who lisps)—Asthma. "That's all right dear. I have broken arches."

HARMLESS ENOUGH

Louisville Courier-Journal: "I was a bit elevated last night. Hope I didn't insult anybody." "No harm done, I think. When I saw you, you were having an argument with a snow man."

The Alabama Rammer-Jammer: Alumni—This school has turned out some good men.

Frosh—When did you graduate? "That's the point I'm bringing out—I didn't."

Resists Corrosion

THIS picture, taken in the salt marshes near Kearny, N. J., shows two lines of 30-inch Cast Iron Pipe replacing pipe made of other material. The alternate exposure to the action of salt water and air is a severe test.

While the pipe shown in the picture is subjected to unusual corrosive influences, all underground pipe must be able to withstand corrosion to a greater or less degree. Cast Iron Pipe has this quality. It does not depend on its coating to resist rust; the material itself is rust-resisting. The first Cast Iron Pipe ever laid is in service today at Versailles, France, after two hundred and sixty years' service.

"Red" The Flash of the Campus

The red corpuscle in college life today is the flashy red Conklin pen or pencil. In the pocket, on the desk, dangling from ribbon or chain it is the sign and symbol of the sanguine, active mind.

That Conklin pencil is a real word magazine too. It shoots a lead 3 1/2 inches long and carries over two feet of them. Fill it on your birthday and forget it for a year. Fitted with "the clip that can't slip" or the ring for ribbon—only $2.50. For those who don't see red there is black, mahogany and all metals to match any pen.
