

College and who have gained prominence in athletics either here or as members of teams at other institutions.

The meet gives promise of being the greatest the conference has ever known, both in the number of participants and ability of these different men. Many conference records, some of which have stood for several years, are due to crash before the terrific competition that will develop if the weather and track are good. The fact that there will be men capable of making better marks than the present records was evidenced in the dual meet here last Saturday when the Aggies and Longhorns broke six records and tied another.

BAYLOR COLLEGE GIRLS VISIT AGGIELAND

Nine Baylor-Belton College girls, accompanied by their chaperone, came to A. and M. last Sunday to aid in the religious activities of the campus. The journey from Baylor Belton was made in a bus belonging to that school and one of their employees made the trip to drive the mammoth automobile. The party arrived at College Station late Saturday afternoon and departed for Baylor Belton Monday morning.

The girls took a prominent place on the chapel program at Guion Hall Sunday morning. Besides singing with the choir, the group as a whole rendered a special song. Two of the young ladies accompanied the orchestra on their violins and also played a duet that was exceptionally well received.

No scheduled program was given Sunday afternoon, although several of the girls obliged with impromptu numbers in the "Y" lobby. Sunday evening the entire group were present at the Baptist meeting in the E. E. Building where they presented "The Life of Christ in Song and Verse."

Aside from varying the usual Sunday program, the girls by their excellent technique charmed every audience before which they appeared. Their visit will be remembered as a bright spot on the religious calendar of the College by all who heard them.

Dwight L. Moody: "All that I have ever accomplished in life I owe to my mother."

Jean Paul Richter: "To the man who has had a mother, all women are sacred for her sake."

Charles Dickens: "I think it must somewhere be written that the virtues of the mothers shall be visited upon their children as well as the sins of the father."

Ralph Waldo Emerson: "Men are what their mothers make them."

Henry Ward Beecher: "The mother's heart is the child's schoolroom."

SENIOR WEEK.

The hopes of the seniors for a senior week just before commencement have turned into rejoicing over the announcement that there will be a senior week this year, for the first time in several years. After Saturday, May 23, the seniors will not be required to attend classes. Very probably the exams for them will be given on Monday and Tuesday, May 25 and 26. The seniors will make all military formations and remain on the campus during the week.

The purpose in having a senior week is obvious. Getting ready to graduate is no small task, for numerous details must be attended to. Then, too, it is fitting that the seniors should have the last few days of their college life as a time in which to revive old associations, make the rounds of friends, and get their affairs in shape preliminary to their last good-bye.

William Dean Howells: "A man never sees all that his mother has been to him till it's too late to let her know that he sees it."

C. Simmons: "If you would reform the world from its errors and vices begin by enlisting the mothers."
