COLLEGE NIGHT ONE OF BEST IN HISTORY

then addressed the student body and commented on the famous Aggie spirit and cited examples as to how other institutions felt about it. Col. Turner then spoke on "Fairness" and applied it to not only the gridiron where A. and M. is noted for fairness but also to classwork and to the cheapening of the value of a diploma from A. and M. caused by cheating in the classes. During his talk Col. Turner asked the questions as to why the occasion was called "College night." He answered his own question as he saw it and was verified by Col. Ashburn, secretary of the Ex-Students' Association, who explained college night as the occasion for the upper classmen to renew their spirit and to impress the conditions upon the freshmen, or in other words, the night to get the college spirit started again. "What a glorious thing it was," Col. Ashburn said, "for the football team to make such a splendid record in the fiftieth year of the college." And to fulfill his hopes there will have to be another Southwestern Conference championship won by the Aggies this year—a high goal, but not at all impossible to attain. To Benny Garrity, well known ex-student and former yell leader, fell the honor of presenting the football team to the cadets. At this stage the gathering lost its frivolity and became a solemn cadet corps pledging its unfailing support to the team that was to fight for the glory of their school. Captain Dieterich, Coach Bible and Coach Rothgeb each spoke a few words asking the cadet corps to stay behind the team and promised that in return the team would give its all for the corps.

After the team had retired Jake Langford took charge and the Brazos bottoms again pealed with "Good-Bye to Texas"; "The Spirit of Aggieland"; and various yells. As a closing talk, Andy Rollins, president of the Ex-Students' assured the corps that the Exes all over the state were behind us to a man and doing all they could to boost A. and M. A few more yells followed and as a doxology to the fifty-first year's college night, all heads were bared as the echoes of "Taps" rose and fell among the buildings.

What has become of the old-fashioned rich man who ordered beefsteak smothered with onions?

Very Useful

Oil Weekly: Mother (to her daughter's musicmaster)—Do you think, Mr. Crochet, that my daughter will ever be able to do anything with her voice?

Musicmaster—Well, madam, it might come in useful in case of fire.

It's good to see you old boys back again and we are tickled to meet the Fish.

Come to see us, boys, at the same old place.
