SULLIVAN HAS THANKS-GIVING TICKETS

Commenting on press reports to the effect that tickets for the Texas Aggie-State University Thanksgiving football game at Austin are becoming scarce, James Sullivan, business manager of athletics for the Aggies, pointed out that of the 40,000 tickets available for the game, his office here had 20,000 left. However none of these tickets have been offered for sale to the public yet, he said.

According to Mr. Sullivan the A. and M. tickets will not be put on sale until November 1. The tickets are evenly divided and ours start at the fifty yard line on both sides of the field, including the best as well as the less desirable seats from the standpoint of location. None of the tickets in the Maroon and White section have been sold yet and none will be sold until the designated time, November 1.

Time

WAY back in 1892—over a quarter of a century ago—Purina Mills started with an ideal. That ideal was to provide farmers with rations scientifically, honestly and practically made to lower their cost of production. After thirty years time we can see the fruit of that ideal. Records the country over prove that Purina Chows are accomplishing their purpose. They are lowering production costs for thousands and thousands. The many graduates from the better agricultural colleges, who have joined the Purina Mills research laboratories or field forces, are entitled to a big share of the credit.
