

JUNIOR PROM.

that about 300 will be present. Plates will cost $1.50.

The prom will be staged in the main mess hall, and will last from 9 till 2. The R. V. decorations will be used, but they will be changed up to a considerable extent. About 500 are expected to attend the affair, but favors will be given out only to juniors.

Plans for the final ball, which is given by the junior class in honor of the senior class, have also been worked out by the same committees. The main mess hall will again be the scene of one of the best dances of the year, when the final ball takes place on Monday night May 30th. The final ball is always enjoyed immensely, especially by the underclassmen who have three months of leisure ahead of them; the seniors realize that it is their last night here, and they usually try to make the best of it by having an extra good time. The seniors will receive favors which will always remind them of the good times they have had in Aggieland. Plenty of young ladies will be on hand for the commencement exercises and nearly all of them will attend the ball. Music for both the Junior Prom and the Final Ball will be played by the Aggieland.

All Juniors are reminded to get dates for the prom and banquet, and to be sure to make arrangements for their tickets as soon as possible so that Mr. Duncan will know how many to prepare for.

CATTLE RAISERS.

May 20. This committee of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association is composed of about fifty of the most prominent cattle men in the Southwest.

A step looking toward closer cooperation on the part of the Association with the A. and M. College of Texas in behalf of the livestock industry of Texas is pointed out by Dean Kyle in citing resolutions recently adopted by the Association. The resolutions in question provide for the appointment by President Richard Kleberg of the Association of a committee of three to visit the College annually for a thorough inspection of the Animal Husbandry Department. The resolutions set forth that after such inspection the committee shall "feel free to offer constructive suggestions to the Dean of the School of Agriculture and the head of the department on any matters looking to the good of the department." This committee is also to keep the members of the Association posted as to conditions existing in the Animal Husbandry Department of the College. The resolutions set forth as the reason for the authorization of such a committee that "the Dean of Agriculture of the A. and M. College of Texas has expressed a desire to have the advice and counsel of the practical livestock men of this state in the conduct of their efforts in behalf of the livestock industry of Texas."

THE YANKEE CLIPPER

A RUPERT JULIAN PRODUCTION

With William Boyd, Elinor Fair, Junior Coglin and Walter Long—the Brilliant cast that played the Volga Boatman.

From every standpoint this is a screen classic that will rank among the best of the season's output. It is a thrilling page from the most glorious era in American history when romance and adventure rode high in the rigging of white-winged greyhounds by the sea.

1927 FOOTBALL SCHEDULE.

A new Kyle Field will greet the Aggies when they convene for a new year next September. Permanent seating arrangements are being made and will be completed in time for the Thanksgiving game next November. The entire field is being rearranged, the new track being laid around the gridiron and the baseball diamond being worked over.

Coach D. X. Bible has announced that about 60 calls will be issued for the varsity football squad next fall, most of them having practiced for six weeks in spring training. Bible says that the prospects for a championship team are exceedingly bright. The following is the 1927 football schedule as recently announced:

September 24, Trinity University at College Station.
 October 1, Southwestern University at College Station.
 October 8, Sewanee at Dallas.
 October 15, University of Arkansas at College Station.
 Oct. 22, T. C. U. at Fort Worth.
 October 28, Texas Tech at Lubbock.
 November 5, S. M. U. at College Station.
 November 11, Rice at Houston.
 Thanksgiving, Texas U. at College Station.

ELECTRICAL COMPANIES OFFER PRIZES AND SCHOLARSHIPS

Two very valuable prizes have been offered by Texas companies to the graduates in electrical engineering this term. The Texas Power and Light Company has offered a fellowship for advanced research here, and this has been awarded to J. R. Meador, of Dallas. The West Texas Utilities have offered three scholarships to the graduates in the electrical engineering department, valued at $125, $75, and $25 respectively. These awards will be made soon; the test has been given, but the papers have not yet been graded.
