MUSIC.

"The man that hat no music in himself, nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds; is fit for treasons, stratagem, and spoils." How true is this quotation from Shakespeare for the man is indeed to be pitied who has no love for music.

Among our numbers here in school are many men who are good musicians. Some have the opportunity of continuing their music here if they are able to make the Band. Others who are less fortunate drop their music altogether and soon the training for which they took time and money to obtain soon passes into oblivion. But there are other fellows here who play stringed instruments who think they have no chance to continue their work unless they play by themselves. Each year many good violinists are missed in the canvass for members for the Guion Hall Orchestra just because they think they are not good enough or do not hear about it or even because of indifferences toward practice. Every man is given a chance and is encouraged to come out and try for the orchestra, which is of a symphony type.

This organization is under the direction of Mr. Richard J. Dunn, head of music here at the College. It plays for chapel each Sunday morning and broadcasts programs and entertains on various occasions throughout the year. If anyone wishes to try out for the orchestra be at the Assembly Hall for practice, Thursday evening at 7:45 and lets make more and better music for our chapel services.

CONTRIBUTORS LIST STARTED.

With this issue the "Bat" has adopted the use of the contributors list. The names of men contributing for each issue will appear directly under the Staff. If the man contributing desires his name on his article it will be placed under it, if not it does not have to be published.

There are many men here on the campus who have fitful flights of fancy that will bear publication. If you have a literary, poetic, or humorous turn of mind get that old typewriter busy and submit an article either signed or unsigned. A box will be placed on the door of 40 Gathright for all such contributions. Take a personal interest in the "Bat" and see if it does not give you a thrill to see one of your articles printed that you can send home to the folks and to your girl. The Staff has a hard job of getting out enough material each week and it needs YOUR support so dust that old brain off and lets see some of that hidden ability and ambition which I know is being harbored by some members of the student body.

THE MAN WHO KNOWS WHERE HE IS GOING

There are but two ways of shaping your career: One is to drift with the tide; the other is to have a definite goal—to steer straight for the mark on the farther shore. The world makes way for the man who knows where he is going, but it jostles the dreamer and the drifter to the side-lines. It is your attitude towards the present moment, your realization of its possibilities, which counts more in the fight than any vague, indefinite imaginations about the future. Be thorough. The first step towards the rewards of industry is to do the work immediately at hand with all your might. And remember this:

An ounce of determination applied to a specific purpose is worth a ton of genius, which is all latent capacity, without character or ambition.

It is better to do one act quickly than talk about a hundred for a day.

We have a definite income: and in one aspect at least the universe has been just to us: We have just 24 hours a day income from God; and the wonderful thing about this income in time is that we can save it only by spending it. If we would save our dollars and cents we must put them away, not spending them in the ordinary routine of life; but if we would save our hours and our moments we must spend them, and the more completely they are spent for ends that are worth while, the more they are converted into capital of character, intelligence and power.—Griggs.

One of the things of life which we use the most and value the least is language. It is the distinction of our race, our highest prerogative, the instrument of our progress. It is the bond of brotherhood, too, and the body in which truth becomes incarnate. The thought-history of the race is written in the very structure of its speech; and a language or a dialect is as significant of great social forces now long spent as the strata of the earth's surface are concerning seismic energies.—Adams.

Knowledge is of two kinds. We know a subject ourselves, or we know where we can find information upon it.—Samuel Johnson.

IF

Well, if
A cup
Is the same
As a mug,
And that
Is the same
As a face,
My girl
Has one of
The prettiest
Loving cups
You ever saw.

Sleigh Bells

Lives of great men all remind us,
As their pages o'er we turn,
That we're apt to leave behind us,
Letters that we ought to burn.
