

Many a man is doing work day after day that an electric motor can do for less than a cent an hour

College men and women recognize electricity as one of the principal aids to progress in the factory, on the farm, and in the home.

Guided by human intelligence, electricity can do almost any job a man can do. From stirring to grinding, from lifting to pulling, there is a G-E motor specially adapted to any task.

THE VALUE OF SMALL COLLEGES

American parents will select small colleges near their homes for their children if they follow the advice of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, noted educator and health authority.

The great universities with present-day enrollments of 5,000 to 25,000 are like factories, turning out graduates supplied with specified facts on certain subjects, but they lack the advantage of intimate contacts between teacher and students and the congenial community life which develops character and fosters culture, he declares.

"There is also a social threat which is more dangerous in huge crowds than in small companies," he says. "It is the danger of bolshevism and atheism. It is an easy matter in these crowded educational centers to couple up disbelief in God with disbelief in government.

"One dollar expended at Hanover, a small college in Indiana, gives as much culture as five at Harvard. As a graduate of both institutions I can truly make this statement.

"The real specific benefit of the small college lies in the fact that its students are individuals. They know their professors. They are not simply a number in a huge herd, without recognition or individuality.

"In a commencement in which from one to two thousand graduates receive their diplomas, as is the case in many of our large universities, there is no individuality. There may be a few who have graduated with honors, but most of them rise and, without even answering to their names, are given the degree of Bachelor of Arts, or whatever degree they may receive.

"The whole benefit of personal contact with the professor, the advantage of his personal and sympathetic attention and his interest in each individual character as it is unfolded before him during the years of the association, are all lacking in this mass instruction.

"The safety of the future, the purity of learning and the efficiency of teaching are all intimately bound up with the small educational unit," his Good Housekeeping article concludes.

CLASS OF '28 TO LEAVE MEMORIAL

The plans for the Memorial have been made by Ernest Langford, the college architect, and its general appearance will be as follows: It will

THE HEARTS OF WOMEN

If you have played with the hearts of women,
Be they old or merely maids,
Be sure, my son, you'll regret it
As certain as spades are spades.
You've laughed and joked with the other boys,
At the way you've strung them along,
Never considering the pain you've caused
Nor think you've done any wrong.
But wait, sometime you'll really love,
And then you'll begin to pay,
For the hearts you've broken will give you no rest
In your dreams, your work or your play.
You'll see their faces as you talked to them,
You'll remember the look in their eyes
As you spoke of love and other things,
God, but you'll hate those lies.
For the day you find yourself in love,
With a girl so wonderful fair,
You'll think of the hearts you've trifled with,
And you'll begin to doubt she's square.
That day it will all come back to you,
And the question you'll ask will be,
"I've fooled and played with a dozen girls,
Do you suppose she's playing with me?"
When you kiss the lips of the girl you love
As you leave her at the door,
You'll wonder in spite of all you can do,
If she has been kissed that way before.
For the things she does with innocence
Will fill your heart with doubt,
And the moments you spend away from her
Will tear your heart-strings out.
You'll never think she's doing right,
Though she does and tries her best,
You'll be jealous of every man you see
And think she is like the rest.
For you'll think of the many girls you've kissed,
And you'll reason that this is true,
"The things I can do to the other man's girl,
The other man to my girl can do."

CORPS TRIP TO T. C. U. NOW ASSURED

agent, is very anxious for those desiring Pullmans up to Dallas Friday night, to please report to the station and make their reservations so that he can obtain some idea of the number of cars to have set off. Do this early in the week.

be eight feet square and will contain four ticket windows. The sides will be of white stucco, while the roof will be of red slate and the base red. If possible, a bronze football player will be placed on the peak of the roof, but more likely there will be a bronze football in the position ready for the kick-off. The tile will be furnished by the Athletic Department and all other materials by the Senior class.

Since work is going to start immediately, it is hoped to have the Memorial completed by the time of the S. M. U. game, early in November. At any rate, it will be dedicated along with the new stadium Thanksgiving day. A bronze tablet will be placed on the structure showing that it was erected and dedicated by the Seniors of '28.
