Arkansas Is Next

DROP-KICKS

Say Aggies, three bridges have been crossed on that old thousand-mile walk and we are still going like "a house afire." Still there is no let-up in sight for we have seven more big bridges lying at the top of seven long, hard hills and it will take lots of pulling from you "Twelfth Man" before we reach the shore and board that old "ship" where every good worker can pull an oar.

"Arkansas is the next victim" is the saying that has been heard more than once this week. It surely is if we all "stay in there and pitch" and don't get too confident. Gang, you know what overconfidence and looking too far ahead did to us last year—don't let it happen again. Do not try to cross your bridges before you get to them and remember we've got to fight for every game we win.

That Aggie line certainly looked good against Sewanee. The Tigers wasted a lot of energy trying to get through it but it was all in vain. Every man in the line was putting out all he had and you saw the result.

One of the "Big City" scribes was heard to remark that the Aggies interference was the best he had ever seen on a conference team. Led by Capt. Joel Hunt the Aggie backs ran wild with the ball. Wonder what they can do on a dry field?

Joel Hunt has made the first touchdown in each game so far. When he gets the ball "it won't be long now."

A. and M. is the only unscored-on eleven in the Southwestern Conference. Hope we can say that November 25.

Alsabrook made one of the hardest tackles ever seen on the Fair Park gridiron. The ball popped out of the Sewanee man's arms as though shot out of a gun when Pinky hit him.

Despite the fact that the powers that be could not see fit to give a blanket pass for the Band to attend the A. and M.-Sewanee game Saturday, the portion of the cadet corps fortunate enough to attend the game did not have to give "Wildcat" or sing "The Spirit of Aggieland" without the proper accompaniment. A band of between forty and fifty pieces was present and gave a good account of themselves.

There were a lot of surprises in the football scores this past week-end. Trinity university had never scored on the Texas Longhorns in football

FOOTBALL TEAM PRESENTED WITH OVERCOATS

25 Men Given Protection Against the Elements.

Saturday morning, while the rain was coming down in torrents in Dallas, the football team received a visit from Mr. Jas. K. Wilson of Victory-Wilson, clothiers, who presented each man on the squad with a waterproof overcoat. He made a short talk to the team in which he wished them good fortune in the coming contest and hoped they would have a very successful season. It was quite a pleasant surprise to the team as they are not accustomed to receiving such favors. The members of the team are unanimous in thanking Victory-Wilson for this seasonable gift.

CROSS-COUNTRY TEAM TO BE PICKED SOON

The Cross-Country team that will represent the Aggies in the Conference and Dual meets is scheduled to be picked in the very near future, probably at the end of this week. All of the men on the squad that are out for the team have been running the five mile course, and are rounding into shape, having been out for a good while. This year we will have a strong team that should show up well.

Captain "Nurmi" Childers, and "Pedro" Avila, are the letter men from last year's squad, and besides we have Jack Haile, and George "Tutitsky" Moore, who were on the squad but did not letter. From the '30 squad we have some fine material, and though lacking in experience, they should, under coaching develop into good Varsity men. Killian, Thompson, and Shumaker, who made their numeral last fall, are out this year, and we believe that they will go a long way to filling the gap made by Crump, who graduated, and the other vacancies.

The team has a good chance at the Conference Championship this year, although Rice will have one of the strongest teams. Texas U. should prove an easy victim, when the team meets them Nov. 5 at Austin. Miller and O'Conner, who it will be remembered, put up a strong fight against the Aggies, in their dual meet, are lost to the Yellow and White this year, and they were the mainstay of the Longhorn runners last year. The team has plenty of fight and every man that is out, has a determination

SEWANEE IS DIS-APPOINTED AGAIN

For the fifth time the Sewanee Tigers have descended the well-known mountain, have crossed the Texas boundary line to battle with the Texas Aggies in Dallas, and for the fifth time the Tigers were forced to wend their way back up the mountain without victory. And this time Sewanee came out of the game with nothing whatever except great gobs of mud gathered from various parts of the gridiron. It had rained all that morning in Dallas and the field was in no condition for the tricky passing attack which the Tigers expected to use.

Sewanee was not as strong as expected and the Aggie backs were able to make long gains through the line and around the ends. The Aggie backfield gave an exhibition of perfect interference running and the Aggie line did some wonderful defensive work. Sewanee did not attempt any passes until the game was hopelessly lost, so the Aggie backs did not get that much-needed practice in breaking up passes.

Schoolfield's fine punting kept the score down. The Sewanee offense was unable to do anything against that powerful Aggie line but at times their defense held the Aggies at crucial moments. Kimbrough, Sewanee's best player, went out with a dislocated knee early in the game.

Every man on the A. and M. team played a good game, but especially outstanding was the work of Capt. Joel Hunt on the offense and Willie Bartlett on the defense.

AGGIES FIRST CONFERENCE GAME TO BE SATURDAY

With a standing of 1,000 per cent to give them plenty of confidence and the knowledge that the Texas Aggies are a worthy foe to keep them from being over-confident, the hog-herding cohorts of Francis Schmidt will invade Aggieland next Saturday to attempt to retain the high standing of leaders in the race for the Southwestern Conference Championship. Due to the weakened condition of the team from the mountains of Tennessee, the Porkers will be the first real competition for the Farmers for the season.

According to the dope bucket, the Aggies are favored to win by about two touchdowns, Southwestern having defeated Baylor 19-6, the Aggies took it from Southwestern 31-0, and the Porkers defeated Baylor 13-6 in their first conference game last Saturday. History shows that the dope bucket is easily upset however so the Arkansas Raorbaks will bear close watching.

The probable starting line-up will be as follows:

A. & M.	Arkansas
Sikes .....	Cowger
	L. E.
Lister .....	Winters
	L. T.
Wylie .....	Harmon
	L. G.
Bartlett .....	Coleman
	C.
Figari .....	Van Sickle

Sprott .....	Crabaugh

Hunt .....	Geise
	Q.
Burgess .....	Donathan
	L. H.
Conover .....	Cole
	R. H.
Varnell .....	Beavers
	F. B.

Due to injuries Conover and Wylie probably will be replaced by Holmes and Mills in early part of game.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL STARTS

Intramural athletics began Wednesday when Company A defeated Battery B in the first basketball game of the season. All those students who have not signed up for some sport should do so at once; there is still a chance to make any of the teams as the regulars have not been selected. All games start promptly at the time assigned. So far all teams have cooperated with the intramural department and have been on time; the most noticeable thing about the games is
