The World's Largest Hotel

Great achievements in engineering are brought about by the harmonious work of many. The individual's largest opportunity comes through the exercise of his own creative talents in the field for which he is preëminently prepared.

THE larger a hotel, the larger loom the difficulties of ventilating it; of handling the crowds that ride its elevators. The larger, too, looms the interest of engineers in designing electrical equipment to meet such unprecedented demands, of salesmen in selling it, of service engineers in installing it and keeping it in top-notch operating condition.

To Westinghouse came the Hotel Stevens for ventilating motors, for its elevator system, for the electrical equipment of its laundry. To Westinghouse come many undertakings of such kind and size—a steady stream of imagination-stirring opportunities to do the never-before-accomplished. All of tremendous interest to college men who have ambition, resourcefulness, capacity; disciplined sales and engineering minds.

The Hotel Stevens contains 3,000 rooms and baths. The Variable Voltage Control System used in the elevators was designed by Westinghouse. Whether you rise ten floors or only one, there are no jerks or jars. Speed is the same whether the car is empty or whether it's packed. Cars automatically stop level with the floor—no "jockeying"—no "step up," or "step down, please."

Tourist: "Why is there such a rush of men into the Hawaiian Islands this summer?"

Ticket Agent: "The grass crop was a failure."

Little Bo Peep has lost her keep,

The burg is full of slander,
Her mind was weak;
She fell for a sheik
And now her hubby's canned her.

There comes a time in the lives of fish
When foot prints left upon 'em,
Will teach them that before they stoop
To always look behind 'em.
