

AGGIELAND PLAYS AT XMAS DANCES

Eight Orchestra Artists Tour State
During Holidays.

The famous Aggieland Orchestra composed of Skinner, Yett, Brauer, Brummit, Pink, Eckles, Callaghan, and Werner, during the Christmas Holidays played for dances at the leading cities of Texas. Most of the dances were sponsored by A. & M. clubs of the following towns: Corsicana, Waco, San Antonio, Houston, Galveston, Wharton and Yoakum, all of which lasting from nine until two. Dances played for other than A. & M. Club dances were fraternal club dances; the places honored by the music rendered by our orchestra were Mexia, Waco, Gonzales, and Cuero, the latter being of a marathon nature, lasting from nine until six the following morning.

It has been said that Pink has contemplated turning in a petition to the faculty that he be granted a leave of absence every Thursday for the purpose of spending the week-ends with the fair sex in Austin, that he met between Waco and San Antonio.

We wonder why Elam Eckles broke all friendly relations with the "blonde" he met in Cuero. If there is any Freshman who wants a good, excuse for coming in contact with "Horace" Brummett, it is suggested that he ask him why he changed his name from Bob to Horace.

With the exception of Skinner missing all of his trains the Orchestra made a very successful trip.

Professor George H. McKnight of the department of English, in his book "English Words," says that "in the vocabulary of modern youth, chivalry is dead." To this list we have added a few words or expressions often heard in the speech of our "Drug Store Cowboys" and "Jelly-beans." If a girl is unpopular she is called a pill, a lemon, a dead one, a priss a tomato, wet rag, an oil can, a flat tire, a mess, a bore, an old timer or an ancient one, an onion, an old hen, a back number, an iceberg, an ornament, a missfit, a tender foot, and the like.

"If she is popular, she is a darb, a peach, a bird, a belle, a live one, a baby vamp, a whiz, a pippin, a star, a sweet patootie, a baby, a choice piece of calico, a sweetums, a snappy piece of work, a pretty Genevieve, a thrill, a flesh and blood angel, a high stepper, a pretty trick, an eye opener, a sweet mamma, a chicken, a real kid, a necker, a walking Sheba, a Queen, a doll, a neatly turned curve, a warm number, a pansy, a gold digger, a keen gal, a mean mamma, a swell date, a marvel, and a lovely creation."

Speaking of names for members of the stern sex, McKnight says: "The man who does not take his girl about is a chair-warmer, a tight-wad, a porch warmer, a lounge lizzard, a parlor leech, a flat wheeler, a ham, an egg, a Rube, a light conserver, a dizzo, a nut, a hammerhead, or he's just that type. The one in favor, however, is a candy-leg, a gold mine, a jack full of money, a nifty guy, a thriller, a regular fellow, a full guy, a good sport, a sweet man, handsome devil, a prince, a Sheik, a pleasure hound, a live wire, a tea sipper, and thus we find a sure enough Jelly dubbed to perfection by the fairer sex.
