

SAY BO! DIDJA.

Say Bo, Didja
Ever fall for a Pretty Stenog
So hard that you
Wanted to watch
Her
All the time?
And Didja' Pick your
Seat in the Lecture
Hall
So that you could See her thru
The open Doors,
And Didja' sit there
With your Mind
Far-away—
Building that little
Love Nest,
And did she Smile
One of her Loving Smiles
That made your Heart
Skip two Beats
And Didja' Prof.
Ask You a Question
Before you recovered
From that Smile,
And Didja'
Blush
And Stammer
'I Don't Know'
Say Bo, Didja!
'Sparky' Parks Did.

WEEK'S NEWS IN REVIEW.

The subject for the first debate to be held here with the Kansas Aggies is: Resolved: That Congress should enact legislation embodying the principles of the Haugen-Macnary Farm Bill. We are to have the negative and when the Aggies are through we will wager that the originators of the bill will be ashamed of it.

We do not know whether it is intended that this society should take the place of that course, "Curbstone Oratory" so dear to the heart of every cadet or not. At any rate we are all watching and listening with great interest and hope that the Aggies will stay in there and talk; fighting not being allowed.

A. & M. was represented at the Y. M. C. A.-Y. W. C. A. Convention held in Milwaukee, December 28th, to January 1st. by F. C. Leslie, C. C. Neighbors, D. B. Hardin, and Prof. Daniel Russell. There were about 4,000 delegates representing nearly every college in the U. S. and twenty-one foreign nations.

Most of the time was taken in discussing the problems on the campus of the most important colleges, including the interracial question, the relation between the boys and girls of the co-educational institutions, and the R. O. T. C. The last question was the most important to the Aggies who attracted much attention as the only ones with uniforms, and they were a determined minority in the discussion.

The boys were well entertained with banquets and the other forms of amusements that go with conventions, but they enjoyed the contact with the students of other institutions more.

According to press dispatches from Austin dated, January 4, the attorney general's department has held that those holding commissions as reserve officers in the United States Officers reserve Corps are not disqualified to vote in Texas.

This ruling should be of much interest to all A. & M. men and graduates who are eligible or now are members of the Officers Reserve Corps, since it sets aside a former ruling of the Attorney General holding officers in the Reserve Corps ineligible to vote. Since all military graduates of A. & M. become members of the Reserve Corps this new ruling is one that is of vital concern to them.

The campus was honored last Friday, January 7, by a visit from Representatives George C. Purl, of Dallas; W. S. Barron, Bryan, and Ruben Loftin, Henrietta. These men stopped for a short visit and an informal inspection of the college. They were enroute to Austin to attend the opening of the Legislature. Representatives Purl and Loftin each made a short speech in the Mess Hall. They were very much pleased with their visit to the college.

Miss Catherine Harvey, soprano, of Galveston, will sing at the motion picture show at the Assembly Hall Saturday night, January 16.

Work—an obsolete method of earning a livelihood.
Flattery—a card of admission anywhere.
Fame—an article in the American, or mere mention in the Mercury.
Engagement—a pleasant state of suspension which its participants invest with eternity.
Monkey—an animal that has been rather unjustly accused of being the ancestor of the human race.

Biography—the most fascinating fiction of all.

"He's got an arrogant air about him."

"I hate men who use perfume, don't you?"

People who wear balloon trousers shouldn't stand on their heads.
