

P.A.
suits my taste
like nobody's business

I KNOW what I like in a pipe, and what I like is good old Prince Albert. Fragrant as can be. Cool and mild and long-burning, right to the bottom of the bowl. Welcome as the week-end reprieve. Welcome . . . and satisfying!

No matter how often I load up and light up, I never tire of good old P.A. Always friendly. Always companionable. P.A. suits my taste. I'll say it does. Take my tip, Fellows, and load up from a tidy red tin.

HE'LL ALWAYS WONDER
She came undulating across the floor toward him like a drifting wisp of smoke, like a rag of wind blown fog, each movement of her lissom body seemed to blend into the next move just as a fish swims; such grace, such langurous ease, and that sheer black dress so built that the eye of the beholder delighted in removing it bit by bit in imagination.

She held her long snow white arms out towards his hands, his great big clumsy hands, but at the moment of contact his hands lost their clumsiness and slid up her arms, slowly mounting to her shoulders, shoulders that were round, smooth, and so soft to the touch. She smiled encouragingly and though his heart stood still at his temerity he slid his hands slowly down her bare back and locked them like two lovers climbing a precipice and meeting at the base, there his hands rested, just as though the two lovers, content at union, were resting at the base of their snowy descent.
Timorously, he pulled her towards
