mediately, after notification. This move helped break up the usual method of electing a man by a meeting of a few men secretly deciding to support certain candidates.

Hanks is sergeant major of the Infantry Regiment and is an outstanding man in his school work besides being very popular among the members of the Corps. The other men elected to offices of the Junior Class were: R. W. Howe, Seymour, vice-president; J. F. Day, Eden, Secretary-Treasurer; and L. W. Johnston, Ft. Worth, Historian.

Howe and Johnston are first sergeants of Co. E Infantry and D Battery respectively while Day has the distinction of being the Corps Sergeant Major. All four of these men who have been elected to these offices are fully capable of carrying out the duties that will face them this year as representatives of their class.

The representatives to the student welfare committee from the Junior Class include: J. H. Taylor, Dallas; R. Hable, Corsicana; and B. Lackey, Fort Worth. These men are to meet with the Faculty representative and the other class representatives to settle the various student problems that come up from time to time.

everyone and serve as one of the very few means that the campus affords for breaking the monotony that many students complain of. A lively social program in connection with the dances can furnish all the entertainment that the boys desire.

The Aggieland Orchestra has contracted to play all the dances the first term. The orchestra is better than ever this year and is furnishing good music and plenty of fun. With the cadets bringing their dates down for the week-end and plenty of good music and good-looking girls there should be no reason for the dances not being more popular with all members of the corps.

The schedule of the Corps dances for the first term, as nearly as can be determined at present, will be: October 20, T. C. U. game. November 3, N. T. S. T. C. game. November 17, Rice game. December 15, and January 19.

These dates have been set so that anyone desiring can make all arrangements for dates for any of the games and have his date stay over for the dances.

Three Triumphant Yankees

conduct the Blindfold test . . .

and MILLER HUGGINS picks OLD GOLD

The Babe and Lou here will tell you that there is only one way to choose a pitcher . . . and that's to send him into the box and let him twirl a few innings.

So the best way to choose a cigarette is to put them all through their paces in the blindfold test.

In the test I have just made, OLD GOLD played right into my mitt. Its zippy flavor and mellow smoothness couldn't be touched by the other three brands.

Made from the heart-leaves of the tobacco plant

In the dressing room at Navin Field in Detroit, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig gave the blindfold cigarette test to Manager Miller Huggins. The famous Yankee pilot was asked to smoke each of the four leading brands, clearing his taste with coffee between smokes. Only one question was asked, "which one do you like best?"
