

course daily. Anderson should find several men from this array of material to build a team with for the season of 1929.

Two dual meets will be held before the Conference fray. The Aggies will begin their Cross Country schedule against Texas at Austin Nov. 10th, and will entertain the Rice Owls Nov. 17th, between the halves of the Aggie-Rice tilt. The following week the team will journey to Austin for the Conference meet. Rice is reported to have a veteran team back and is at present favored to win the title, but upsets are quite possible. Saturday afternoon while the Ponies were dubbing the Owls, the Rice Harriers were beating the S. M. U. Cross Country runners by the small margin of one point, beating them 28 to 27. Brunson, veteran track star of the Institute ran the 3.7 mile course in 19:56. The Aggies have a complete new team and are not expected to repeat as the Champions this year but all of the first eight are finishing in a bunch and that is what it takes to win a pennant, providing of course they finish somewhere near the front. Captain Avila and Killian failed to return this year and Coach Anderson is going to find it hard to replace these two stellar men.

It must be remembered that the team is working against heavy odds and all encouragement will be for the cause.

team but showed much better form during the past week. Probably the most interesting game of the week was that between Coach Lockett's men and Troop D. The Casuals are going to make a strong bid for League honors.

Don't forget that Speedball starts on the Twenty-ninth and that is a game we can all play since it is a combination of the best parts of basketball, football, and soccer. It should be the most popular of our Intramural sports. Company A won the championship in this sport last year and have lost only four men from their championship combination. They report that they are out for the medals again this year so we can look forward to some keen competition.

To you students who are beginning your college work—let your college life be well-rounded. Plan for participation in every phase of college life."

By that I do not mean for you to be a "jack-of-all-trades"—not at all! There is a difference between a so-called "Jack-of-all-trades" and a student who is keenly alive to his opportunities and takes them eagerly.

If your body is strong enough, try intercollegiate athletics and if not take up intramural athletics to make it stronger. Join a debating or literary society to make you a more forceful speaker and polished conversationalist. If newspaper work appeals to you apply for a place on one of the college publications and learn more about it. Do not be deterred in anything on account of lack of previous knowledge—remember that college is the place where you learn and a confession of ignorance is a significant mark of the successful college student.

Then don't forget to keep yourself up to par socially. Strive to become acquainted with a new person each day and you will gain tremendously. Make contacts that will improve your manners and sharpen your wits.

Above all don't scoff at the things of the spirit. Cultivate those associations that will make the spirit grow and don't think it beneath your dignity to be sentimental, if sentimentality is in order.

When you simmer this hodge podge of random suggestions down to a well ordered plan you will find that provision is made for development of every phase of your life, be it mental, physical, social, or spiritual—and the development or neglect of these phases will make or unmake any person and therefore is worthy of attention from all college students.—The Houstonian.

Mary split her little skirt,
The tear was rather wide.
She said it was an accident—
And we all saw Mary's side.

COME ON, OLD "ARMY"

Just cause the "Gentlemen" and the "Horned Frogs" run us "in" is no sign we are going to stay "put" for thirty years—

NO SIR—cause we got to be up and going and get those "Raysor-Backs," "Ponies" and "Steers" back in the pen before it's too late.

But say "Army" let's do it right—when the days work is over you will want to step out "Right" and a pair of Florsheim's oxfords with a new Learbury suit and Schloss top coat with one of the new fall Dobbs hats will "put" things over Brown—Come in and look 'em over and lay yours aside.

What Shakespeare says about Coca-Cola

"The glass of fashion and the mould of form, the observed of all observers"

Maybe Shakespeare never knew Coca-Cola. But he couldn't have written better about it if he had tried—
