

THE CAMPUS BARBER

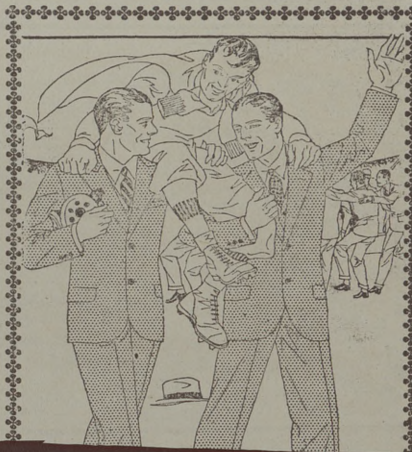

DEATH

would only be reverting to the animal stage so coming ultimately to the perpetuation purpose.

To live a right life, define right...the standards of right are as many as the waves on the ocean and as changing, but a right life is one that does no harm to another life, some will argue that bringing another life into the world is harming it, others, that such a right life would lead to a mere automatom.

Then cut loose and drift. Drift wherever fancy and hunger leads.

love and ambition against pleasure and death. Who is there omnipotent enough to say he lost, who is there wise enough to say he won...and who is there that will follow such a course? The fools of the world...and who judged them fools...the men who had and to whom were given.

HARK YE! GOOD NEWS!

The entire cadet corps is looking forward to an annual event which occurs at about this time every year; one which is always eagerly welcomed. The exact date this event will occur is not known, but by the law of averages, it is due within the next few weeks, and it will be a red letter day on which the student body of A. and M. will all rejoice, for it will mark the ABOLISHMENT OF REVEILLE.

Long enough have we been disturbed from our peaceful sleep by the harsh sound of the bugle on chilly mornings, summoning us to come forth and partake of our daily dozen or circle the drill field many times in attempts to learn the righteous ways of a soldier. It is indeed time that we should be allowed to increase our beauty sleep by a half hour of early morning slumber, made more enjoyable by the knowledge that we are partaking of a privilege formerly denied.

So rejoice and be exceedingly glad, all cadets who nod and doze in the classroom, for in a short while time for sleep will be plentiful, and you may lie in bed and laugh at the alarm clock. But remember, also, that it will not always be thus, for with the coming of Spring the Colonel never fails to become grieved at our lack of exercise, and again issues orders that we tramp upon the drill field every morning.

THE CHARGE OF THE TIGHT BRIGADE.

Half a brew, half a brew
Half a brew onward,
All in the stupor of death
Staggered the sick hundred.
Forward the Tight Brigade,
Fill to the gums they said,
Into the stupor of death
Sank the sick hundred.

Forward the Tight Brigade!
Was there a man delayed,
Not though their bellies blew,
Yes volleyed and thundered.
Theirs not to reason why,

Off the Field With Flying Colors IS RIGHT!

And all are proud of the results. You will be proud of the Thanksgiving and Holiday Clothes that we have just received for your selection. College clothes for College men "from a College House"

Theirs but to drink and sigh,
Into the stupor of death
Sank the sick hundred.

Bottles to the right of them,
Bottles to the left of them,
Bottles in the front of them,
Bubbled and grumbled,
Poured out and foaming well,
Bursting bubbles to cast their spell,
Oh how our stomachs rose and fell.

When can their story fade.
Oh what a belch they made,
All the world wondered.
Honour the beer they prayed,
Honour the Tight Brigade,
Noble Sick Hundred!
