

runs in three times at bat. The Aggies completed one double play, Weston to Pampell to Martin in the seventh.

Many Runs in Second Game

The second game was destined to be a close one, but the mighty Keith failed to show his usual form and down went the Rice Owls in the second Conference tilt 14-9. Eleven men faced Keith the first inning and 3 hits netted 7 runs. The track meet started when the Aggies took advantage of four free rides, one error, and three hits, one a home run by Tom Mills with the bases loaded to capacity. Enough other runs were added in the remaining innings to allow for the two Owl rallies. During the first five innings, only 15 men faced mills. Just two balls were hit out of the infield, one for a single. And then in the sixth a few errors and miscues and two hits netted the Owls five runs. Mills was then relieved by Eddie Gorman. Coach Countryman believed that Mills could easily have lasted the game and won handily, but he is trying to save his pitchers for the other games on the schedule and so that is the reason for Mills trip to the showers.

Conover connected with two hits in three times to the plate and one was a long drive to right for a home run, scoring two men ahead of him. Brooks accounted for three runs himself. The Aggies completed another double play when Morgan hit a fast one to Johns. Johns threw Allnock out at second to Pampell who threw out Morgan at first to Martin. The Owls trumped this double with one of their own making, Beisner to Knippel. Homer Childers was credited with twelve put-outs. He got one bingle in two official trips to the plate.

This Captain Dannie Allnock looks like a second rate catcher in comparison to either Lackey or Harris. Either of the Aggie catchers showed up far better than the Rice All-conference receiver. Allnock looked poor with the stick, couldn't throw to second, and fielded his position poor. Carrol, hustling little short stop for the Owls, secured his first hit in two years of Conference baseball against Mills in the sixth. It was only a single.

With these two clear-cut wins, the scribes are inserting the Aggies' name along with the Baylor Bears as possible strong opposition for the Longhorns. If the Aggies pitching staff suffers no injuries, the Longhorns will have to play their best brand of ball when they meet the Aggies if they expect to take the crown again.

Waco and Notre Dame Micks are the opposition this week.

Equipments for playground ball and horse shoe pitching has been issued and competition in these sports will begin very soon. Playground ball diamonds are being placed on the drill field and all teams wishing to practice may do so there. About eight diamonds will be placed there and there are about four on the Freshman football practice field. These leagues will start April 15. Each organization will be allowed to enter two teams, a class A team and a class B team. 50 points will be allowed the organization for entry of an "A" team and 25 for a "B" team. The best men do not necessarily have to be on the "A" team but it will work out much better if this plan is followed.

Horseshoe pitching a week or so later. The official distance between stakes is 40 feet and the games will be held at the same place that competition was held last year.

The volleyball league is progressing very fine, except that a few of the organization managers are allowing their teams to forfeit a few games. The intramural department has announced that the sole responsibility is placed on the managers now and that they will no longer notify them of games, schedules are furnished each manager and each time he forfeits a game ten points is deducted from the organization's entry points. At present Battery B is still in the lead with only a few points and the flag still belongs to anyone.

SPRING TRAINING ENDS

Following a month of intensive training, Coach Matty Bell closed the 1929 Texas Aggie Grid Team's spring training last Thursday with a stiff scrimmage which bore all the earmarks of a mid-season game. Each day about fifty one men reported to Coaches Bell, Bible, Bassett and Petty and when these candidates return next fall for practice they will be well schooled in the Bell system. One month has been a short time to do much with a team but Coach Bell has been bearing down on them and every man that has been out has showed much improvement. On the last day of practice Coach Bell said: "Many of the men who are expected to be out next year are out for other sports, but we have had a very fine spring practice and I am well pleased with the spirit that of the men that have been out. Coach Bell was particularly interested on the fact that seventeen of his charges were out for practice each day and that there were about ten that missed only one day. The following is a list of those that did not miss a day: La Boa, Overton, Hable, Zarafonetis, Filizola, Bible, Moser, O'Dowd, Christian, Abbey, Hill, Anderson, McCowan, Sebesta, Guseman, Woodman and Wolfe. Golasinski was injured about the middle of the training period, but was out each day to watch practice and at least learn Coach Bell's methods. Dansby missed one day and that was because of a funeral. There were about ten others that missed only one day.

Four injuries was the toll that the Aggie Gridsters paid for spring training. Those that were injured were: Scovall, Moore, Golasinski and Thompson.

The delegates to the highway conference received a real treat when they watched the embryo stars in action. A stranger would have thought that the game was a conference affair from the amount of betting and enthusiasm displayed; those old Aggie grads are sold on Matty Bell now and they will broadcast the poweress of the 1929 grid machine. Their antics were almost as interesting as the actions of the future Aggie warriors. Coach Bell allowed his charges to play more than game and still those grads yelled for more.

Coach Matty Bell was in charge of the spring practice and he was assisted by Coaches Bible, Bassett and Petty. Petty worked especially with the wingmen and those that he had charge of showed much improvement. Ewell and Hable have been removed from the center of the line and an endeavor is being made to make wingmen out of them. Varnell has also been shifted to the end position.

Coach Bell left for Fort Worth Friday and will more than likely return to Aggieland once more before the fall practice there and get acquainted with his players and assistants. He will be gone about one month.

The following is a line-up of the two squads that played in the final
