

PRESIDENT APPROVES
PROPOSED IMPROVEMENTS

fifty cents per term. Estimates have justified the conclusion that this small increase will probably be ample to cover the cost of the improvements.

Students have long been cognizant of the unwholesome conditions that exist in the dormitories, things that detract a great deal from college life, but in the past no particular effort has been made to improve them. Students have criticised freely and often vehemently but their efforts have been confined to criticism. This plan, as prepared by the Senior Court, is the first time that any of the student body have taken it upon themselves to better the existing situation. Coming from them it has an excellent chance for success as their can be no reason for not making the changes that are deemed desirable by them for which they are willing to pay.

The Senior Court, while working on the plan, consulted representative students freely and in all cases the plan met with their unqualified approval. However, not all of the student body are familiar with the provisions of the plan and it is printed for their benefit.

THE PLAN

Part I

Remodel and re-equip all dormitories.

1. Adequate, well lighted and well heated showers and toilets.

2. Floors of a hardwood grade in all rooms and hallways.

Part II

Refurnish each room.

1. A rug of a kind and quality compatible with the rest of the furnishings listed below:

2. Shades and curtains on all windows.

3. A medicine cabinet or other device to hold toilet articles.

4. A dresser of a good style and quality.

5. A table, or desk, for each student, substantially built of hardwood, ample in size, built and finished in a manner similar to the accepted standards of good furniture.

6. An armchair, for each student, of such size and construction as to be comfortable and to harmonize with the table.

7. Individual desk lamps and a central light, on separate switches.

8. Beds of the same style as in present use except that they be of the variety already stacked.

9. Mattresses of a better grade and thicker than the present ones.

Part III

Expenses of improvements.

1. The initial cost to be paid by the college.

2. This sum, with interest to be repaid by the students through a sinking fund created for that purpose.

3. The deposits for this fund to be obtained by increasing the student maintenance fee approximately twelve dollars and fifty cents ($12.50) per term.

Part IV

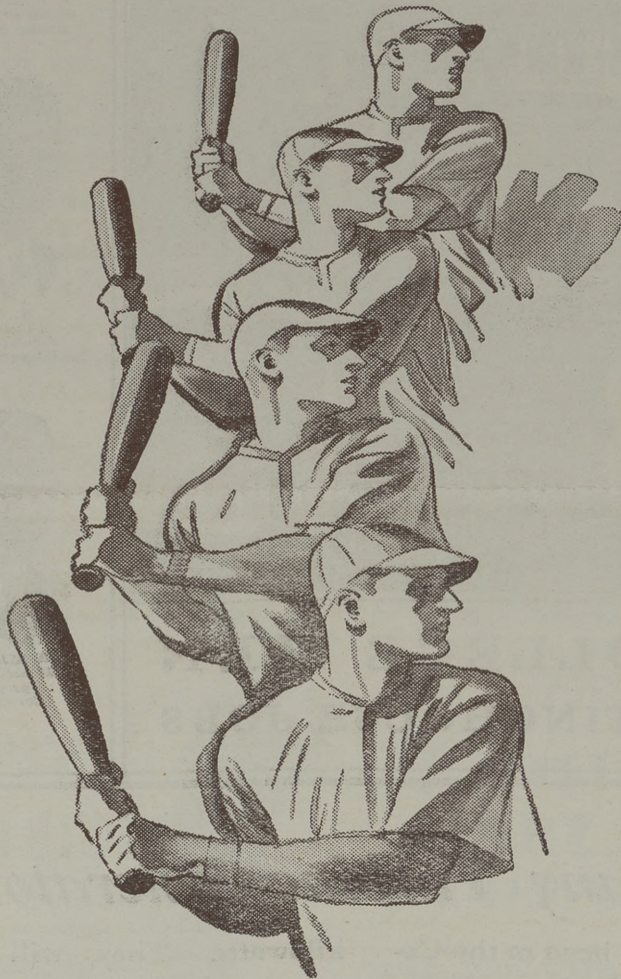

Special provisions:

1. Each student to be made absolutely responsible for the furniture under his care and a student trust fund to be established to insure payment for damages.

Part V

Some suggestions.

1. It is suggested that a lounging

Pinch Hitter's Paradise!

THERE'S a whole world waiting for inspired "pinch hitters."

In one industry alone—in the telephone making industry — hundreds and hundreds of men have won their spurs by pinch-hitter-like concentration.

For specialization is the order of the day. Specialization by some individual is the key to a short cut in making tiny switchboard lamps, to a more accurate inspection of the carbon in many million telephones, to a revolution in warehousing methods.

The stirring thing is that, just as the game of telephone making is constantly getting bigger, so the opportunity for "pinch hitters" becomes constantly greater.
