

50 MEN REPORT

mates in the early season drills.

Competition this year is keener than ever before and picking a team from the wealth of material on hand will be a difficult job. The lettermen will have a hard time holding the places they earned last year with such men as Christian, Magrill, Abbey, Overton and Dawson, fighting for a place in the line and Wolfe, Dansby, Clark, and Phillips looking for a place in the backfield. Coaches Bell, Reid and Holmes, all new men, say that the field is wide open and past records count for nothing.

Competition Keen in Backfield.

In the backfield five lettermen will return, Bible, Mills, Conover, Dorsey, and Zarafonetis. At present Dorsey is out with a broken thumb and Zarry has just arrived. He is in good shape and ready to bear down with the others who have had one week's training on him. Coach Bell has two real problems: he needs a capable field general and a strong line. Bible, Dorsey, Conover and Dansby have been calling signals lately and probably he will find his man in this quartet. Bible and Dorsey ran the team for the most part last year; Captain Mills is getting a shot at the position and may get the job. For the other backfield berths, Bell has Phillips, Woodman, and Sessions from last year's squad and Clark, Davis, McFadden, Rees, Sebesta, Snyder, and Wolfe from the freshman and intramural teams.

Floyd was shifted to the line last year, but is being tried in the backfield in hopes of finding a good line plunger.

The ends are well taken care of with Alsabrook and Tracy and a wealth of other material to choose from. Besides these two veterans are Varnell and Ewell. Both showed up well in spring training and are expected to make the two lettermen hump for their jobs. Varnell was a back on the '27 and '28 squads and Ewell was a letterman at tackle. O'Dowd, star intramural wing, is showing up very well.

With Ewell on end, the Aggies have no lettermen available at the tackle positions, but Coach Bell is expecting the husky sophomores to come through. Dawson, 229-pound, six-foot four tackle, Overton, Broiles, Moulden, Fischer, Mortella, and Thompson are all ready to step into the position and a merry battle is being waged.

The Aggies are better fortified at the guard position with two lettermen back and a wealth of material that is nearly as good as the tackle hopefuls. The two veterans back are Van Zandt and Richter. The others on which much depends on how they come through are Jack Christian, former All-State man, Golasinski, Hedrich, Moore, Magrill, Laboa, and Gusman.

In Joe Brown the Aggies have a possible All-Conference selection, and little is feared in this quarter with such reserve strength as Abbey and Anderson. Christian may also see service at this position. Brown worked at center regularly last year after Bartlett was sifted to tackle.

Scovall and Delery Fail to Return.

The Aggie machine slightly sputtered when word was received that Field Scovall, husky letterman and one of the reasons for S. M. U.'s downfall last year, and "Red" Delery, 200-pound letterman, would not enter school. These men have had much experience and would have been valuable men this year.

and dollars. There will also be a fifty-six hundred dollar field cover which will insure a dry field at all times.

For the Southwestern and Arkansas games, everyone will be seated on the west side of the field. Cadets will be seated from the fifty-yard line south, and the faculty and public will be seated from the fifty-yard line north. To complete the attractiveness of the gym, there will be an ornamental steel fence around it and another large entrance to accommodate the crowds.
