Rev. J. B. Gleissner, chaplain of the Catholic group at A. and M., accompanied by six students, L. B. Howard, T. C. Frol, V. T. Kallus, J. J. Janak, J. A. Revak, W. H. Carsons, and N. J. Yentzen, attended the Gulf District Newman Club meeting at Southwestern College, Lafayette, La., as delegates from the local group last week.

Delegates attended the meeting which opened Friday morning and closed Sunday, from the state colleges and universities of Florida, Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas.

Stock Judging Team Begins Contest Trip

Six members of the Texas Aggie international livestock judging team, accompanied by their coach, A. K. Mackey, entrained early Wednesday morning for Fort Worth enroute to Chicago where they will participate in the International Livestock Contest November 30.

The six members of the team are: J. W. Greenwade, Whitney; R. W. Howe, Seymour; Geo. E. Love, Jr., Del Rio; K. E. Simank, Ellinger; J. E. Tatum, Dublin; and M. D. Lacy, Marble Falls.

The team planned a practice workout in Fort Worth for Wednesday, and Thursday are to enter the contests of the National Livestock Farm at Wichita, Kansas. Friday they will visit a number of outstanding livestock farms at Kansas City and Lee's Summit, Missouri, according to the program arranged by the Chamber of Commerce at Kansas City for the A. and M. team and the teams of several other colleges.

The Kansas City A. and M. Club, John Mayo, president, will take the team in charge Friday night, and Saturday they will enter the contests at the American Royal Livestock Show, Kansas City, where they will stay a few days.

DEBATERS MEET FOR DISCUSSION

Seeking to destroy the prevalent opinion that A. and M. students are unable to reason, the candidates for the A. and M. debating team discussed among themselves last night the proposition: Resolved, that a Department of Education should be organized with a secretary in the President's Chamber. The affirmative was upheld by W. O. Alexander, Gulf; W. A. Porter, Terrell; and G. H. Norman, Kaufman. The negative was composed of S. C. Leslie, Houston; H. M. Secord, Millican; and Davis from ———.

The debate was described by Professor C. O. Spriggs as unusually interesting and the debaters themselves as "promising."

Announces WTAW Radio Programs

Brief talks on agricultural topics of timely interest combined with music by the A. and M. 100-piece band will feature programs for the winter over Station WTAW, the A. and M. College of Texas radio broadcasting station, Dr. E. P. Humbert, program director, has announced. Under present arrangements the A. and M. station is giving three daily programs a week, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, from 11:50 to 12:20 (noon). One night program, largely musical, is given on Wednesday night, from 8 to 9, every week. On Sunday mornings, from 11 to 12, convocation services, at which an outstanding speaker appears every Sunday, are broadcast.

The performance of the A. and M. band given on the Monday, Wednesday and Friday daily programs, is broadcast from the campus where the band plays for mess formation for the cadets.

C. M. Bowden, senior electrical engineering student, of Granbury, is assisting in the announcing. H. C. Dillingham, of the college, supervises the operation of the station, assisted by T. L. Hiner, senior student, also from Granbury.

Station WTAW is a 500-watt station with frequency of 1120 kilocycles and wave length of 267.7 meters.

MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD FOR CADETS

The memory of fifty-two A. and M. men who died with the colors during the world war was fittingly commemorated Monday morning at special Armistice Day services held at Guion Hall. As W. A. Porter, Terrell, read the name of each of the fifty-two, D. C. Lentz, Red Rock, rose and responded with the words, "Dead on the field of honor." Rendition of "Silver Taps" followed.

The ceremony opened with the A. and M. Orchestra playing "The Star Spangled Banner," followed by "America." Cadet G. H. Norman of Kaufman recited "In Flanders Field" and "America's Answer." W. O. Alexander of Gulf, delivered the patriotic address.

PAID ATHLETICS CRITICIZED IN S. W. CONFERENCE

Findings of Institute Prove Startling to Public.

In view of the uncovering of subsidation in athletics through an investigation by the Carnegie Institute of Teaching, and in appreciation of the statement by the investigators that the furthering of this investigation could be realized only through the initiative and individual efforts of the various college and athletic conference officials. Dr. T. O. Walton has expressed his earnest desire that athletics of the Southwest conference be rigidly investigated and that any of the undesirable elements found through such an investigation be made public and eradicated.

It is in the realization that authorities, not ever-present during athletic arrangements and manipulation, are unable to know everything which exists in the athletic department; and in the desire, stimulated by his deep interest in everything concerning A. and M. in particular and necessarily the Southwest Athletic Conference in general, to learn of any such existing qualities, that he urges the completion of the investigation initiated by the Carnegie Institute.

Such an investigation could be conducted by the recently formed Association of Texas Colleges which is composed of the presidents of the five athletic conferences in Texas with the president of the Southwest conference as its head.

The revelation of the prevalence of subsidation in athletics has not affected the institutions involved as much as the Carnegie report would infer, it seems, but since conditions exist which seem repulsive to many, it should be the immediate action of S. W. Conference officials in clearing this matter up and sustaining the present high basis upon which college athletics is placed.

O. B. Martin, director of the Extension Service, H. H. Williamson, vice-director and State Agent, and Miss Mildred Horton, State Home Demonstration Agent, left the earlier part of last week, for Chicago, to attend the annual meeting of the Land Grant College Association which is to be held from November 12th, to November 14th.
