ting him over in athletics. It takes confidence to make athletes. Some athletes do become conceited, but also the "highly intellectual" students who attain such high positions as editorial writers on school papers fall into the depths of conceit.

So athletes are doomed to be conceited, dumb idols of their respective schools. That too bad. Not being very well versed on the subject of athletics, as has been evidenced by his writing, our friend, the editorial writer, has very probably never heard of Wear Schoonover, All-American end and All-American forward from the Univ. of Arkansas. Now here is an example of the editorial writers average athlete. A few of the things Schoonover has accomplished during his four years at Arkansas include being president of the senior class, attaining highest scholastic mark among male students for four consecutive years, CANDIDATE FOR RHODES SCHOLARSHIP, president of his fraternity, captain of varsity football and basketball teams, and considered by his fellow classmates, as being one of the greatest all-around students ever to attend the institution. Another example. Gerald Mann, Southern Methodist, who was also the leading student scholastically during his stay in college, president of the senior class and a few other little trival things. The editorial writer might look up the records of a few Aggies. At present Hebe Dorsey is considered one of the leaders in the stiff geology course, George Zaranetis is a star chemistry pupil, and Johnnie Konecny, veteran basketeer, made six A's both terms last year. Our contention is, Mr. Editorial writer, that you are very damp.

This is the way we have you figured out. If you attend the athletic contests, as all loyal Aggies should, you yell for the team and pull for an A. and M. victory. You laud a play made by one of these same boys, whom you term as worthless parasites of the college. On the other hand, if you hate the athletes so much that you don't attend the athletic contests, you don't belong around this place."

S. M. U. has a card that is even better than the Aggies as they meet Notre Dame at South Bend, Navy at Baltimore, and Indiana at Dallas. Texas U. meets only Centenary and Oklahoma in intersectional games if they can be considered intersectional.

tion for appendicitis during the Christmas holidays and has been advised to leave basketball out of his athletic program this year.

Every coach knows the position his men can play under his system, so lately Captain Buster Keeton, all-conference guard, and Johnnie Konecny, two-year letterman at guard, have been shifted to the front line and are knocking the bottom out of the basket. This leaves the rear positions open for new men and at present it looks as though Bell and Broiles are on top, but Veltman and Harling are showing exceptional promise. Keeton was high scorer on the Aggie team last year and still has the eagle eye which helps sink those goals that win games.
