

FREE-THROWS

If there is an all-Conference center in the Southwest Conference it is none other than Shiro Hoke. His performances in the Texas and Arkansas games, not counting his other conference games, is practically enough to give him the berth. The Porker players were high in their praise of the jumping Aggie center.

Coach Frank Anderson is willing to take the "Gripes" from Business Manager Sullivan for his men bursting fences with the discus, providing they can hurl the ancient weapon as far in the Conference track meet. Bob Farmer, holder of the Conference broad jump record, hurled the discus through the top of the fence which was about 150 feet from the ring the other day and that is "pretty good" when you consider that Leo Baldwin just reset the conference record with 152 feet last year. Farmer is carrying the hunk of wood around for luck so we hear.

The Engineers and First Artillery are now the only real contenders for the Intramural football crown. They each have two games to play and it takes two wins for either to win. The Engineers and First Artillery meet in the last game.

Announcement has been made that the Intramural track stars will compete with the Texas University Intramural thinly clads in a telegraphic track meet. The Aggies' meet will be held April 27th and since the Texas meet is scheduled for the 25th, the winner will be known here as soon as the last event is finished here. It is hoped that the Aggie Intramural track stars can win this first meet; the intramural record as a whole is a little better and members of the Intramural department wish to keep Aggieland on top in an Intramural way.

Journey around Kyle Field and take a look at Higginbothams crew—looks like a real club in the making and one that can give Aggieland's traditional foes a beating.

I. M. GAMES CLOSELY CONTESTED; ENGINEERS AND 1ST ART. LEAD

With the last games of the Battalion football league just two weeks off, the race for Intramural football honors has been narrowed down to the First Artillery backed by Major Sloan and the Engineers with a Pick as their supporter. Due to the fact that the Engineers did not get to play their first game of the season on account of weather condition and the fact that the First Artillery will play their full schedule, the Wagon Soldiers will have a slight advantage since they play one more game. The Artillery can win one and tie one, while the Engineers must cop both their games to win the flag. The Engineers will play the First Artillery on March 8th in the last game of the season and a victory over the Artillerymen would give them the flag or not less than a tie.

The Composites held the First Infantry to a scoreless tie when the two teams met this past week-end. The game was played in the Composites territory most of the time, but the First lacked the driving punch when they had the ball in scoring distance. Ellis, Nolan and Schnurr continued their good playing for the First while Price and Sudderth were the mainstays of their opponents.

The Second Infantry failed to break the winning streak of the Engineers and dropped a game to them by a 12 to 0 score. The scores were the result of a continuous aerial attack. "Swede" and Blodgett were the big guns for the opposing teams.

A scoreless tie was also the result of the Artillery duel. The Wagon Soliders did their best to out do each other, but they were too well matched. O'Dowd and Hewit shared the honors for the First, and Moser and Criswell upheld the Second.

FISH CONTINUE TO WIN

Coach "Red" Petty's 1930 freshman basketball team continued their winning streak when they met and defeated two different opponents on two successive days.

First, Caldwell Hi bowed by a 47-19 count when Embry, first-year forward, led the scoring with a total of 18 points. Porter and Houston of the Caldwell club each scored 8 points for their club.

The second game proved to be just another game when the fish found the Allen cadets easy pickings to win by a 33 to 13 score. Malone, big center from Terrill of Dallas, was closely pushed for high point honors with 11 points by Miller with 10. Wilkerson of Allen was high scorer

AGGIE RIFLEMEN WIN FIRST MATCH OF 1930 SEASON

The Texas Aggie rifle team, coached by Lieutenant Nachman, won its first inter-collegiate small bore rifle match of the 1930 season by a score of 3,666 as compared with 3,638 made by North Carolina State College of Agriculture and Engineering who placed second. Mississippi A. and M. placed third with a score of 3,558 and the University of Illinois placed fourth with 3,555.

McGinnis, of Troop A Cavalry, was the only man on the Aggie team to shoot a possible, making a perfect score in the prone position.

The Aggies score is particularly gratifying as this is the first inter-collegiate match fired this season. The new small bore range has added much interest to the work of the rifle team and the facilities should make improved scores a certainty. The team is captained by Johnnie Janak, major of the First Battalion of Infantry.

Following is a list of the scores of individual riflemen of the Aggie squad:

Porcher, C Inf	376
Griffing, E Inf	371
Winders, E Inf	369
Rhine, A Cav	369
Price, B Inf	366
Myers, A Sig	366
Cook, C Eng	352
Janak, 1st Bn	365
McGinnis, A Cav	352

PREPARE FOR S. W. C. TRACK MEET

James Sullivan, business manager of athletics at A. and M., is laying plans to facilitate the handling of the Southwest Conference track and field meet to be held at Kyle Field May 9-10 this year. The Aggie business manager is looking forward to having a large crowd in the new stadium for the meet, which is expected to attract a large number of track and field stars from the high schools and junior colleges of the state. Optimistic reports from a number of the conference track training camps indicate the meet this year will be one of keen rivalry and that Coach Frank Anderson's Texas Aggie track team, acting in the role of hosts and defenders, will be hard pressed in the defense of the title won last season.

PORKERS WIN FROM AGGIES; BUT WHATA ARGUMENT

Aggie teams have been called "The Fighting Aggies" and Friday and Saturday nights the Arkansas Porkers found that the old saying was far from wrong when the Aggies held them to three and four-point victories. And had the Aggies been half way lucky the first night with their shots, both long and crisp, the Porkers would have suffered one of the worst defeats in many moons. The second night the Aggies took about one fifth the number of shots the evening before and made them count, in fact so much that it looked as if the Porker had lost a game until the very last few seconds when a free throw was made to tie the count. 25-22 tells a big story, but nothing like the tune of 28-24—even tho the Aggies lost.

For the Aggies Hoke was the outstanding man of the game. Shiro took the tip from the elongated Holt practically every time and played an all-round game. The Arkansas players will never stop wondering how he gets so high in the air. Holt is not less than 6 inches taller, yet Hoke took the tips. If there is an all-conference center in the Conference it looks like Hoke is it. Keeton played a good defensive game with Bo Bell—especially in the second tilt.

For the Porkers Creighton with his long shots in the first game and Schoonovers superb playing in both games were our picks.

Next Saturday the Aggies meet Texas in the last game of the season. Buster Keeton and Johnnie Konecny will be playing their last game under Maroon and White colors and a victory over the Longhorn's should send them out in a blaze of glory.
