

M. H. HOLLOWAY

Dear Public:

For the past five months I have tried in my own fashion to give you the type of reading matter that would meet with your merited approval. It seems however that I have not succeeded as well as I might have done. If I say anything worthwhile, no one applauds; if I say anything to the contrary, it is promptly called to my attention.

Now, my dear public, as you all know I'm receiving an enormous salary as an exalted member of the staff of this paper and my job is to please you—if possible. Therefore, I'm asking you to help me out with this overwhelming problem. Unless you tell me what you would like to see in this column, I have no way of knowing. So I ask you—brothers, sisters, co-eds, mothers, fathers, shieks, and shebas, to kindly write and let me know. The box number is 1014. Student Exchange. All suggestions will be thought over carefully and given excellent attention.

If you want bear stories, then you will hear bear stories; if you want plain news stories, you may have them; if you want wise cracks, you can't have them. I've lost my sense of humor. If you like poems, express your opinion in the matter. You may have them, either sad, sarcastic, or sweet. You see, I'm very obliging. Seriously now, write and let me have the low down. I'll be more than glad to accomodate you.

Yours sincerely,

Texas University received the shock of their lives Saturday night when the Texas Aggies with rejuvenated vigor, ran them all over the basketball court and smothered them under an avalanche of well placed shots. It reminded one of the football game on Kyle Field this past Thanksgiving. In short it reminded us of everything that is sweet to look upon. Revenge is sweet and all things come to those who wait and wait and never get tired of doing so.

The Aggies played like iron men and looked like versatile stars. They were fighting all of the time and took advantage of practically every break. Every child of mother Aggieland that missed this game should be ashamed of himself. It would have done you more good than what you probably did. It was one of the most pleasant sensations of the year.

Ferry Gives His Views on Education

"It is much more necessary to the future of the nation that the colleges of liberal arts produce men of spiritual and cultural riches than material wealth," Frederick Ferry, president of Hamilton College, said in an address before the convention of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Middle States and Maryland, held here recently.

"The goal of American education," he said, "has been characterized as efficiency, and that of British education as culture. Unless American efficiency can have genuine associated with it, American education will have failed."

Also speaking at the conference, President Harvey N. Davis, of Stevens Institute said "there should be more independence of mind, more curiosity and more creative power among students, and less absorbing power." He declared that in after life things memorized in school days are used rarely and suggested a revision of college entrance examinations in line with such a theory.

I. A. CLUB ANNUAL BANQUET SUCCESS

Fields, Walton, Winkler, Bolton and Several Others Speak

L. B. Fields, Houston, was the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the A. and M. Industrial Arts Club in the Mess Hall annex last Friday night. The banquet was successful in every respect and was well attended, E. O. Cox, president of the club, reported after the gathering.

Preceding Mr. Fields' address, the subject of which was "The Teacher's Highway," were talks by Dr. T. O. Walton, Dean C. H. Winkler, Dean F. C. Bolton and several others.

Strengthen your Defense Mechanism

with the Pause that refreshes

The best defense is the attack. The best time to attack is when you're feeling good. You feel your best when refreshed. Q.E.D.; also, Eh, Voila!—Coca-Cola!

Refreshment—that's the true inward meaning of Coca-Cola. Ice-cold, sparkling, delicious—an all-day drink, pure as sunlight. For millions of people, every day, Coca-Cola is the first thought and the last word in wholesome refreshment.
