Of course it is seldom that two scribes ever agree about the merits of any of the players when picking all-Conference players. From the selections made, it appears that many of the scribes saw few of the games and picked blindly for an all-Conference five. From the games that we have seen, and we have seen every club in action, Schoonover is the only man that should have the vote of all the scribes. We have heard that Rose is good, but he looked anything but like a basketball player Saturday night. How any writer can leave Hoke off his selection is beyond us. Hoke, although he is probably the smaller of most centers in the Conference, has not been out jumped this year even taking the tip from the elongated Holt of Arkansas, and has outplayed every center in the conference. He has been consistent in all his work and in our mind is the outstanding center of the conference, at any rate the Aggie club.

The Aggie athletic plant is gradually attaining its final form with the setting of the last stones in the stadium and the landscaping of the stadium, office, and the grounds.

When asked where they would like to play since they had to play on a neutral court, Boswell Dairys champion girls' basketball team of Fort Worth yelled "Aggieland" in unison. Arrangements were finally made with Business Manager Sullivan for the game to be played Thursday night in Memorial Gymnasium. Sullivan was rather skeptical at first, realizing that part of the gym might be torn down when the beauties of Ft. Worth and Houston clashed in their encounter here. This is the first time that a champion girls' team has played on the Aggie court and we hope not the last. Bring on the game—the girls.

AGGIES ROUT TEXAS IN FINAL GAME OF SEASON, 42-20

KEETON, KONECNY, BROWN, HUNTER END CAREERS.

An inspired Texas Aggie basketball team, led for the last time by their captain "Buater" Keeton, swamped their traditional rivals by the overwhelming count of 42-20 and ended their season in a glorious manner. Texas was held to only four field goals, two in each half.

In his last game, Keeton played his best game of the season and showed some of his stuff of last year. Johnnie Knoecny came through with his best performance to take second high scoring honors with nine points. Lefty Martin did not start so well, but finished the game strong. Joe Brown and Leland Hunter, both squadmen, finished their careers as Aggie cage-men also, although they did not get to see any service in the final game.

Hoke, our pick of the Conference centers, outplayed any man of the floor and was high point man of the game with five field goals and six free tosses, counting exactly sixteen points. Konecny came second with nine, and Keeton third with eight. E. Taylor of the Texas Crew was high for his team with six free tosses.

Rose, named by every scribe as an all-conference forward or center, was roundly outplayed by Hoke and had the grand total of one point when the final whistle blew. However, he did look the best that Texas had on the floor, which all means . . .

LEADING I. M. TEAMS DEFEATED

Two upheavals in the Intramural games last week in the form of victories for the Cavalry over the 1st Artillery and the Composites over the Engineers has made the chase for the Intramural football crown even more interesting since two of the teams can tie for first honors by winning their respective games and the leading team, the First Artillery, can cop the title by a win over the Engineers. Should the Engineers win their game and the Composites drop theirs, the percentage would favor them, but if the Cavalry cannot stop the crew of Sudderth and Company the Engineers and Composites will tie for the title.

The famous Cavalry offense that has failed to function since the first game of the season began functioning properly in the crucial moment and just at the time when the First Artillery had hoped otherwise. A pass, Harlan to Page proved the downfall of the Artillerymen. Harlan, Page, and Bryant were the outstanding men of the fray.

The Second Infantry took their usual beating from the Second Artillery by a 19-0 count when the fast stepping Hilsman crashed over for a couple of touchdowns and Shippard added another. Moser was outstanding in this game as was Shippard and Hilsman. The Second Infantry has been taking their beatings regularly and the First Infantry is liable to find a fighting crew next week when they play their final game of the year.

The Second Artillery has completed its schedule.

RIFLEMEN WIN AGAIN

Continuing to hit the center of the bull's eye, the Texas Aggie riflemen swept their matches this week with plenty to spare, winning a special five-man match with the University of Southern California by a score of 1858 to 1840 and winning against four other schools with a total score of 3,677 for the ten men firing. Scores of the other schools: South Dakota State College, 3,646; University of North Dakota, 3,627; Georgetown University, 3,600; and University of Alabama, 3,532.

To date this has given the Aggies ten victories without a defeat. This speaks well for the coaching of Lieutenant Nachman and shows that with proper facilities the Aggie marksmen can compete with any of the other college rifle teams in the country. Last year the old armory had to be used and the conditions were very unsatisfactory, yet the Aggies always placed high in all the meets.

Bethancourt was high man for the Aggies with a total of 374; Myers came second with 373. Rhine, Price, and Janak were the remaining number of the five that fired against California.

SPRING BASKETBALL BEGINS

For the first time in the history of Aggie land, spring training in basketball will be held. It has been common to hold spring football, giving football nine months of the year, but this is the first time that spring practice has been held for the cage game. Now basketball takes its place by the side of football in that it is played the entire year by the (Continued on Page 9)

GIRLS TO PLAY CHAMPIONSHIP GAME THURSDAY

FORT WORTH AND HOUSTON TO MEET HERE FOR FIRST TIME.

A girls basketball team representing the Boswell's Dairies of Fort Worth will meet a girls team from Houston on the Memorial Gymnasium court Thursday night in a game that will do much in determining the champion A. A. U. girls team. The Fort Worth club won the championship of Fort Worth this winter and is headed toward the A. A. U. laurels which will be determined at Houston.

When the girls were told that they could play a game on neutral territory and asked where they would like to play—Aggieland was the answer and here they come. It took a brave heart to allow the game to be played in the Memorial Gymnasium as it is possible that the Aggie games will be played there next year and with the damage that possible will be done while the girls are going through their antics, Business Manager Sullivan was dubious about granting the request for the use of the gym. However, he will be on hand to watch the—girls.

The Fort Worth team is built around former T. C. U. stars. They have won 14 games and lost only two this year. Four members of the teams are teachers in the public schools and five are graduates of T. C. U.
