and would take three years to build. There is sufficient fall in the stream between Waco and the coast to build power plants along the river, which would provide a very economical source of power for the state.

Announcement was made of the annual banquet which will be held Friday night, December 12. Extensive plans for a very interesting program are being completed, and will include as guest of honor, J. M. Howe, vice-president of the national American Society of Civil Engineers. Tickets for the banquet cost seventy-five cents.

Membership cards, for the coming year have been recieved and are being given to the members of the local chapter.

Appoint Committee—

Thanksgiving Day was discussed by the committee in an effort to determine the opinion of the student body on the matter, but no action was taken.

Recommendation was made that complete information regarding the use of money derived from room rent, added last year to the maintenance fee of the college, be made through The Battalion in an effort to correct any misconstrued ideas which may now exist.

Twenty-two members of the committee were present at the meeting, which was preceded by a banquet in the banquet room of the college mess hall.

college in all lines of literary and journalistic pursuits. It is planned to invite men prominent in newspaper and other literary fields to address the club at regular intervals.

Membership to the club will not be restricted to members of publication staffs, but all students interested in writing and kindred pursuits will be eligible for membership.

Love Letters Of A Sophomore

Wednesday Eve.

Listen Sweetheart,

I didn't mean I didn't want to put your picture up beside one of those other pictures 'cause the other picture was so much better looking.' I didn't mean that at all. I meant I liked your picture so much I didn't need any other girl's picture up there no matter how pretty she was. I was trying to compliment you. Honest. You know I love you honey. I haven't had a date since I left home. There isn't a girl here that is as pretty as you. Not one. Come on and be sweet and don't get mad over a little thing like that. Tha's a good girl. Smile for poppa. There. That's the way.

Say, do you remember me tellin' you we was goin' to get even with our top-kick. We did it alright. We caught four dogs runnin' around on the campus and put 'em in his room. Then we nailed his door shut. Those dogs howled all afternoon while he was in a lab class and when he got back one of the Army Captains was waitin' for him. Ole captain Snoop it was, somebody doin' something. He was

The one I told you about who is all time snoopin' around tryin' to catch waitin' for Fred when he got back. You know there's a rule in the blue book that says we can't have dogs in our rooms. Captain Snoop thought he had Fred. And that's where me and Jake made a mistake! If we'd only put one dog in the room maybe Captain Snoop wouldn't have believed Fred didn't own it, but four . . . and the door nailed shut to boot. The Captain just gave Fred a lecture and kinda grinned and walked out. I looked at him grin and you know, I believe he's a pretty good fellow after all.

Fred asked me if I put the dogs in his room and I said no. I didn't either, 'cause Jake did it. He asked me if Jake did it and I said no too. I had to lie to protect a friend.

I had a quizz in History the other day. It wasn't a hard one but some of the fellows were havin' a hard time answering the questions. You could hear 'em whisperin' in the back like a hive of bees. The Proff was grading a paper. I don't believe in givin' help myself but I helped Fred a little 'cause I wanted to get on the good side of him. He didn't need much help so I didn't do much wrong.

Me and Jake pulled a hot one last night. There's a kid here, a Junior too, who is as dumb as any Freshman. I don't think he ever got away from his mother's skirts the whole time he was in high school. He won't use any tooth paste that has pumice in it, and he won't drink out of any glass somebody else has drunk out of before he washes it. That's the kind of fellow he is. Well Jake and I have been talking about a secret society whenever he was around. Kinda careless like you know. Finally Jake asked him if he wanted to join. He said something about it being against the (Continued on page 8)
