

Policeman (at scene of murder)—You can't come into this room.

Reporter—But I have been sent to do the murder.

Policeman—Well, you're too late; the murder's been done.

—Ranger.

Doctor—I'm afraid I have bad news for you. You will never be able to work again.

College Student—Wadda you mean, bad news?

—Jack-O'-Lantern.

Dumb—That is a snappy gown you have on.

Belle—Yes, this is the gown I wear to teas.

Dumb—To tease whom?

—Pup.

So this is your dream man: Say, dearie, you ain't been eating anything heavy lately have you?

—Yale Record.

Hotel Clerk—I beg your pardon, but what is your name?

Kappa—Name? Don't you see my signature there on the register?

H. C.—Yes, that's what aroused my curiosity.

—Sour Owl.

The Man—But my dear lady, why didn't you signal?

Flapper—There is no signal for what I wanted to do.

—Punch.

What happened to your face?

The girl friend cracked a smile.

You mean she laughed?

No, no. It was my smile.

—Columns.

Do you sleep with your window up or down?

I don't sleep with my window at all.

—Kitty-Kat.

Hit-Of-The-Month

Chorus 1

Aroun' da corner an' onder de tree

Me and Carmella we make wopee.

She's say, "No, no," I say, "Let's go"

I look aroun' an' soon I foun' Her papa watchin' me.

Aroun' da corner an' onder da tree

Carmella's papa start chasin' me,

I can't forget with his big stillette

He's cut me once, he's cut me twice

Right where I keep spaghett.

Chorus 2

Aroun' da corner an' onder da tree,

We take da steamboat to this countree,

We start da Groc' Shop, Da business a-flop

When I go home last night

Da stork is bringin' lil wop.

Aroun' da corner an' onder da tree

Last night Camella was telling me,

"Now listen, Jeem, don't you lose da steam,

Just one wop more we sell da store

And start da football team."

—Rammer-Jammer.

Girl—I want a pretty red lamp for my bedroom.

Clerk—But, madam, the blue lamps are the latest thing.

Girl—Yes, but I know my business.

—Mountain Goat.

Brown—Do you ever perform ablutions?

Wellesley—Sir!

—Brown Jug.

"Say, look here. I said, what's your name?"

"Watt."
