Jan. 4. Wanted—W. Smith.

—Juggler.

Westy.—I see by the paper that 13,000 people were tied up in a blizzard.

Press.—That's a hell of a time to get drunk.

—Zip 'N Tang.

Teacher—Now, children, every morning you should take a cold bath and then you ought to feel rosy all over. Are there any questions?

Boy (in the back of the room) —Yeah, teacher, please tell us some more about Rosy.

—Sour Owl.

She (fishing for compliments) —What do you like?

He—You for one thing.

She—So that's the kind of a fellow you are.

—Bison.

She—Every time I come to Minnesota I have to change to my heavy undies. You know I'm from Georgia.

He—That so? I'm from Missouri.

She—Sir!

—Ski-U-Mah.

Englishman (day after moonlight hike)—I heard an owl in the woods last night.

Friend—Well, it wasn't my girl.

—Rammer-Jammer.
