The Battalion Short Story Contest

FIRST PRIZE SECOND PRIZE THIRD PRIZE

RULES OF CONTEST

1. All contributions must be written on one side of the paper only, in a clear and legible hand. Typewritten stories are preferred but are not necessary.

2. The length of the story is variable, up to 2,000 words.

3. All stories to be submitted must be in the office of The Battalion not later than midnight, January 5, 1932.

4. The name of the author will not appear anywhere on any part of the manuscript but will be written on a piece of paper, sealed in an envelope, and enclosed in the same envelope containing the story.

5. Judges for the contest are: Mr. J. P. Abbott, chairman; Mr. C. O. Spriggs, and Mr. S. S. Morgan, all of the department of English.

6. The copyright and future reprinting of all contributions submitted, regardless of whether winning a prize, will be retained by The Battalion. No. manuscripts will be returned.

7. Before being submitted to the judges, all manuscripts will be given a number, and judges will judge manuscripts by number only.

8. Entrants may submit stories as early as desired, and should they be of creditable nature, one or two may be published before the close of the contest. The author, however, will not bevealed, and their being published, will in no way affect the decision of the judges in selecting the winning stories.

In an effort to encourage short story writing, and to secure better stories, The Battalion offers these prizes. There is no limit to the type of plot; it may be a love story, a tale of adventure, or one of dramatic atmosphere, or of a humorous nature. The judges will award the prizes to the best written and most interesting ones. Get busy NOW! It is not necessary to wait until the last, as one or two stories submitted early in the contest will probably be published. GET TO WORK
