FOOTBALL—

Bill Roper at Princeton, was added to the list of unemployed—for quite another reason, however, than that back of Coach Meehan's virtual dismissal. Al Wittmer simply had failed to produce a winning team, and as a result was the subject of numerous stinging attacks by undergraduates and alumni.

While Princetonians appeared to be in no hurry to select a new coach Dr. Charles W. Kennedy, chairman of the Princeton Athletic Association expressed the belief that football tournaments might eventually revolutionize the present variety of competitive football.

Cutten Defends

But though King Pigskin faced an uprising among his once loyal subjects, he was not without his defenders. Dr. George Barton Cutten, president of Colgate University, for instance, declared flatly: "Football is a moral substitute for war, and it makes the right kind of manhood."

John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the Western Conference, also remained staunchly loyal and contended that the year 1931 fully demonstrated "the hold that college athletics have on the American people."

As also did Dr. Cutten, Commissioner Griffith expressed regret that "for some unknown reason there were more serious injuries received in connection with games played by major institutions this year than is usually the case. . . . An attempt is being made to ascertain why this is true."

Forty Fatalities

It was believed that he referred to an investigation undertaken by the National Football Rules Committee, which has announced that its members, including prominent athletic directors, will gather all information available in connection with some 40 gridiron fatalities this season.

Revision of the rules to eliminate some of the present hazards is contemplated by the committee, and although no definite action on the subject was either promised or hinted, widespread criticism of the "flying wedge" as an accepted play on the kickoff was also expected to be seriously considered.

EINSTEIN—

as compared with mathematical reasoning.

"Red Shift"

In this regard, the famous German scientist will undoubtedly give a large part of his attention to Dr. Hubble's findings in connection with the "red shift" in the light spectrum from distant nebulae. As yet, all authorities are not agreed as to whether this shift actually indicates a rapidly expanding universe or whether the phenomenon is the result of some influence which affects the light while in transit through space.

Dr. De Sitter is sure that the shift is real—that is, it shows the nebulae to be moving away at increasingly greater speeds, thus tending to prove his theory of a scattering universe.

Tolman Differs

On the other hand, Dr. Tolman is not so sure. He accepts the "red shift" at its face value, but at the same time conceives the universe to be something like a great pulsing, throbbing organism, portions of which may be expanding while other portions are contracting.

Einstein himself is constantly revising his estimates of the universe—or universes, as the case may be—including his original theory which envisioned all matter in space as being in an essential state of equilibrium. During the three months' course he is now starting, he expects to make further revisions, giving due credit to his fellow classmates.

"The United States is leading the world in the field of scientific research," he declared, following his arrival here.

And with that word of praise, he plunged into the mass of work before him.

FISH—

W. L. Zunker, San Marcos.

Since the "Fish" basket ball season is still in its infancy, no definite information on the outstanding players of the above can be given yet. In about two weeks, however, more definite information as to the likely varsity candidates will be known. A number of tentative games are being considered for the freshman cagers but none have been definitely decided upon as yet.

FROGS—

zel has improved remarkably defensively since last year, and will be of double value to the team with this added asset.

If the starting lineups in the pre-conference games mean anything, Capt. Sumner and Walker will be at forwards, Dietzel at the tip-off position, and Green and Brannon at guards. The forward positions are secure and probably won't be questioned for the next two years, but with Vaught, Myers and Kinzy for guard competition, Green and Brannon don't feel quite so confident. Kinzy can also be used as a relief man at center.

Although the squad is small, Coach Schmidt is not worried. There is not a man out who does not have a chance to letter, and this gives Schmidt time to spend practically all of his time with the men who will be used in competition.

COLTS—

also had an additional year of cage experience with Texas Military College. Playing at forward the blonde mite has run wild against all opposition. He is as speedy as they come, a wonderful dribbler, and sinks shots from all angles from all parts of the floor. His defensive work is beyond all reproach. He is ready for the varsity right now.

Nacoma Star

Smokey Zachary, former Nacoma star, is a fit running mate for the West Texas speedster. The dark-skinned youth is a great floor man and possesses a great eye for the basket. He is probably the best ball handler on the squad.

Big Jim Lovern of Monroe, Ga., is playing a whale of a game at center, getting the tip-off with consistency and playing a steady floor game. He gets his share of the goals and plays a good defensive game.

The guard posts are being well cared for by a couple of former all-state men from Denton.

Harem From T. M. C.

Curly Haren received his honors two seasons past as at pivot position and pastimed last year with Baccus at Texas Military College.

Sport Sidelights

By W. J. Faulk

While Aggie's warriors scrap with Rice Institute's feathered tribe in Houston, two of the foremost contenders for the Southwest Basketball title for 1932 will battle desperately to dim the other's chances with an early set back as the champion Horned Frogs enter the den of Baylor's Golden Bears in Waco, Saturday night.

Although Coach Reid's Aggie five are considered as outside contenders for the crown, Baylor and T C U both have shown signs of a vast amount of potential scoring ability in games to date. T C U has experienced one setback this season while Baylor has yet to feel the sting of a defeat thus far this season and both are considered better than last year, when the Frogs waltzed home with the flag.

Led by the "Mighty" Alford, Baylor's Bears have done exceptionally well in overwhelming, with apparent ease, all opposition to date, while "Too Tall" Dietzel of T C U has not been dormant in his basket tossing, and has figured prominently in T C U's success to date. Other than Dietzel the Frogs can boast of a well-balanced combination with "Doc" Sumner and Buster Brannen, both former Athens performers as capable leaders.

What may be a "dark-horse" in the conference race is the Razor-back five from Arkansas University. Although dethroned as champions of the conference by the Frogs last year, the Hogs have had unusual success in their early season tilts to date. And it may develop that another strong contender is to be present, ere the race closes.

Southern Methodist's Mustangs will likely not experience any such remarkable success in the hardwood chase as they did on the Southwest Gridirons in the season just past. But like unto Arkansas's Hogs the Ponies are of unknown strength.

The Longhorns from Texas University should not be troublesome to the leaders and will, in all likelihood, finish below the halfway mark.

The approval of the plans to hold a conference swimming meet an-

He plays a brilliant defensive game and comes through with more than his share of the goals.

His partner, Clyde Carter, gained his high school laurels last year. He is of the steady, consistent type and is proving to be a bulwark on the defense. He plays a neat floor game and is better than fair on the offensive side of play.

For reserves the Colts have Clifton Wilhite, who received some all-state mention with Wills Point last season, at guard; Selman Cowan, of Lampasas and John Tarleton Agricultural College; Billy Brown, guard, an all-city man with Dallas Sunset last year; Joe Smith, guard, another John Tarleton product, from Ralls; and Ernest Golden, giant Rockmart, Go., youth, who is equally at home at either forward or guard.
