

Annual CIA Hockey Game Fails To Foretell Outcome Of Aggie-Longhorn Thanksgiving Classic

In the annual hockey game played on the CIA campus the A and M team defeated the Texas U team by a score of two to one but the encounter failed in its intended purpose of predicting the winner of the Turkey Day football classic.

Each year the students at CIA organize two hockey teams just before the Thanksgiving holidays, one of them to represent the Longhorns and the other the Aggies, and the outcome of the game between the two is supposed to be indicative of the result of the football game on Thanksgiving Day. The Battalion does not have the records of past CIA hockey games and cannot state the prophetic value of the contests but this evidently is not a hockey year as far as the Aggies are concerned.

A and M was represented in the clash by R. J. Miller, Captain, Dorothy Anderson, Charlotte Lane, Charline Lane, Geraldine Forrest, Allene Goode, Grace McMillan, Eleanor McKee, and Melba Davis.

The Texas U team was composed of Kitty Winters, Captain, Helen Anderson, Lucille Lang, Jaunita Weber, Maurine Bagwell, Alice Moberly, Dorothy Davis, Margaret Manor, Margaret Sergeant, Mildred Aiken, Virginia Sergeant, and Alice Groves.

Bonnie Cotteral was sponsor and Allene Goode business manager of the game.

Enrollment In Cotton Courses Shows Increase

Cotton Contest Is Given As Cause For Growth In Agronomy Enrollment.

Professors in various cotton courses estimate that enrollment in their courses this year is nearly one hundred per cent greater than in previous years. The increase is attributed to renewed interest stimulated by the cotton contest held last spring. Winners of last year's contest were: J. O. Beasley, who is now connected with the Experiment Station, T. M. Drew, now managing a farm at Lufkin, and H. E. Horn, who is at present working on his master's degree and is also assisting in the textile engineering department.

American junior and senior students who have had one term of any cotton course are eligible for the cotton contest which is to be held in the spring term. Those students who plan to enter the contest may obtain a revised set of questions at the beginning of the second term from J. S. Mogford, associate professor of agronomy. In anticipation of the coming contest, at least one speaker at each meeting of the Agronomy Society is invited to choose some subject bearing on the contest. "Dad" Short, who is well known in agricultural circles and is connected with the Federal Land Bank in Houston, and W. T. Killough, Cotton Breeder of the Experiment Station, have both talked to the group at recent meetings. The society reports that cotton firms over the state are well pleased with the results of last year's contest and have promised their assistance in assuring the success of the coming contests.

Cleveland, O.—(IP)—Her boy friend is so jealous he doesn't like her to look at a movie showing Maurice Chevalier, Miss Florence Glowackie, a co-ed, told the prosecutor's office here last week.

This led to a dispute which caused the boy friend to slap her face in the midst of a crowd, causing her no end of embarrassment. The prosecutor issued a summons for the boy friend to find out why he is so jealous.

Texaco Quintet Wins 46-45 Tilt With Ag Cagers

Houston Maple Floor Team Takes Hard Fought Game Saturday Night.

Coach John Reid's Texas Aggie basketball team opened its 1932-33 campaign by dropping a close game to the Texaco five of Houston in Memorial Gymnasium last Saturday night. The score was 46-45.

The Cadets had a 10-1 lead in the early stages of the game but the Oilers came to life and held their hustling opponents to a 25-21 advantage at the half.

With the beginning of the second half the visitors hit their stride while the Aggies seemed to weaken. Throughout the closing minutes of the game the score favored first one team and then the other and was tied at 39-39 about three minutes before the final gun sounded. With seconds to play and the score board showing a 44-44 tie "Shiro" Hoke missed a crisp shot but the ball foundered off the back-board into the hands of Lodge who sank it for two points. Joe Merka recovered one of those points by making good a free throw but the Texacos still had a one point lead and the game ended too soon for the Aggies to do any further scoring.

Showing remarkable team play for a group of all-stars, the Texaco matched the Aggies speed for speed and hustle for hustle and should go far in the state A. A. U. competition.

Aside from Captain Moody who was easily the individual star of the game, and the veterans, Marcum and Merka, showed several promising performers and from ranks of the sophomore candidates. Hutto at forward and Dalton and Terrill at guards gave indication

Christmas Season Offers Long Series of Engagements For Two Student Musical Organizations

Evidently the home town clubs are not feeling the depression as much as the pessimists would have us believe, since the Christmas dance problem has reached a solution. Judging from the demand received for the services of the two local orchestras to play for the cadet affairs, the followers of the drum and baton should experience no trouble in forgetting the pursuit of knowledge while enjoying the holidays.

The Campus Serenaders, under the direction and management of Joe Dillon and employing only students as members, are booked for a series of dances principally in East and Northeast Texas. Their first engagement carries them to Houston, from where they go to Sherman to play a dance for the

TIE THIS, MR. RIPLEY

From the sports page of the Washington State Evergreen comes the believe it or not story of the Washington State vs. U. C. L. A. football game of this past season. In the last half-second of his last collegiate game, Johnny Subank of Washington State made a 47-yard place kick which gave his team a three to nothing victory. The ball was in the air when the final gun fired.

Prairie View Ties Texas College On Kyle Field Friday

Colorful Game Ends In 6-6 Tie As Negro Elevens Clash Here.

In their annual game on Kyle Field the Prairie View College football team played a 6-6 tie with the Texas College of Tyler last Friday afternoon. The game, in contrast to Prairie View's overwhelming defeat of the Arkansas State champions last year, was a hard-fought tussle between two teams that were evenly matched as the score indicates. Each team managed to score one touchdown in the first half but both failed to convert for the extra point.

Prairie View scored first on an end run by one of her elusive backs but the lead was short lived as Texas Colled tied it a few minutes later by means of a completed forward pass plus a run of about twenty yards by the receiver. The second half of the game was scoreless but it was not devoid of thrills and awkward situations.

True to expectations, the Prairie View co-eds were out in full strength to cheer their team to victory and although their support did not accomplish its intended purpose their presence added much color to the occasion.

Einstein Denies Rumor That He Believes In Spirits

Vienna—(IP)—Great men are kept busy as a rule denying beliefs attributed to them by quacks who misquote them in support of the quack's theories.

Last week Prof. Albert Einstein found it necessary to deny that he believes in spirits or spiritualism. He added that he would be very happy if no one else did.

The denial was made in a letter addressed to a Viennese woman who had written him asking his beliefs on these subjects. The woman quoted a London spiritualist who said that the famous scientist was a believer in spiritualism through mediums.

"The London statement," said the professor, "is utterly without truth."

Mechanical Engineers See Picture Shows At Meeting Thursday

The A and M Chapter of the American Society of Junior Mechanical Engineers met last Thursday night in the lecture room of the Mechanical Engineering Building with fifty-three members present. Moving pictures were shown the club entitled "The Mechanism of Lubrication" by the Standard Oil Company, and "Monel Metal" by the Monel Manufacturing Company.

The subject of whether or not the students of Mechanical Engineering at A and M would enter a series of debates with Mechanical Engineering students of neighboring schools was discussed and voted upon. The vote indicated the disapproval of the majority of the members present regarding the entrance into such a series of debates; however, the question is expected to arise again at the next meeting, which will probably be after the Christmas holidays.

Plans were made at the meeting for the annual club Christmas party which is to be held on the night of Thursday, December 15.

Boatswain Who Waited 58 Years for Varsity Letter, Dies

Washington—(IP)—Henry Bell Simpson, 80-year-old boatswain, who waited 58 years to receive his varsity letter, died here last week.

Simpson was a member of the crew of the Massachusetts Agricultural College which defeated Brown in a sensational finish on the Connecticut River in 1871.

It was not until 1929 that athletic authorities voted a varsity letter to each member of the '71 crew.

With the epidemic of influenza that seems to be prevalent over this section of the state making itself felt on the A and M campus, the college hospital was nearly filled to capacity Tuesday. Today approximately 130 students were confined to hospital cots and reports indicate that that number is decreasing daily. According to the hospital officials, no serious cases have been handled, nor has the situation reached an alarming state, but as a precautionary measure the college authorities have discontinued all student assemblies with the exception of classroom activities for the remainder of this week. It is anticipated that the advent of clear, warm weather will bring about a noticeable change for the better as the present conditions are attributed to the damp weather that has prevailed for the past two or three weeks.

In the fall of 1928 an epidemic of much larger proportions swept A and M, and at one time there were approximately two hundred students in the hospital, however, the college enrollment at that time was considerably larger than at present.

The rumor that there is a state law stating that any educational institution having ten per cent of its students sick must be turned out is completely unfounded. Colonel Mitchell, Commandant of A and M College, stated today.

Latest Developments In Electrical Field Viewed By Students

The newest wrinkles in the electric industry that have originated with the General Electric Company were exhibited to electrical engineering seniors in the Petroleum Engineering Building Monday. The display consisted of a truck fitted with the individual items and was in direct charge of B. F. McKenzie of the New York office of the General Electric Company, assisted by A. R. Mattes, '21, of Beaumont, district manager for the company.

New types of totalizing watt-hour meters, fused circuit breakers, underground cable construction, new types of small capacity transformers with mountings, and the newer types of lightning arresters were on display. All the improvements of the equipment over the previous design were explained by Mr. McKenzie in his lecture. The purpose of the display was to show the student engineers how the General Electric Company has kept abreast of the demand by constantly improving present equipment.
