First Aid for unbroken joints

How to keep silt and sand from clogging telephone cable ducts was one problem put up to engineers at Bell Telephone Laboratories. No known method of joining sections of vitrified clay conduit effected a seepage-tight joint.

With scientific thoroughness, telephone men made many tests under service conditions. They devised a bandage of cheese-cloth, waterproof paper and mortar. Easily made and applied, this mortar bandage is tight against silt and sand. It prevents clogging, greatly simplifies the installation of new telephone cables and the removal of old ones.

Through solving such interesting problems, Bell System men work steadily nearer to their goal — telephone service of highest possible efficiency.

Fraternity Head Is Expelled As Result of Dancing At Party

Westerville, O. (IP)—Social affairs at Otterbein College were in an indefinite state last week as the campus rose in revolt against the suspension of a fraternity president because the fraternity violated the college rule against dancing.

Pi Beta Sigma held a formal party in a Columbus Hotel on a Saturday night at which dancing took place. Dale B. Evans, president of the fraternity, was suspended indefinitely as a result.

Evans had been warned before the party that dancing was not to be allowed at it. He told the college authorities that the plans had all been made and that he could do nothing to stop them.

Otterbein's other five fraternities backed Pi Beta Sigma in a heated protest against the suspension action, and things began to go from bad to worse, with the college authorities asserting that the no-dancing rule was to be enforced at all costs.

A strange cat-sized creature, preserved in full, even to its skin, was found recently in an excavation in Louisiana, where it is estimated to have died only 50,000,000 years ago.

Along the Sidelines

By Ed Smith

Captain Joe Moody and his Aggie basketball club showed the corps last Saturday night that they are going to make things mighty tough for their conference foes this season. Only four lettermen were available to form a nucleus for the team but squadmen and freshmen numeral men of last year have developed remarkably and after some of the kinks have been worked out of the squad's team play the Aggies will make anybody's club hustle, and hustle hard to win from them.

The basketball team is scheduled to make a jaunt out of the state during its annual Christmas holiday tour. In previous years the holiday training games have been booked with teams in neighboring Texas cities but this year the squad starts in Nacogdoches against the Stephen F. Austin Lumberjacks and then jumps to Louisiana for games with Southwest Louisiana Institute, L. S. U. and the Brown Paper Company, Southern A. A. U. Champions. The change of scenery should have a worthwhile effect on the men and they certainly deserve such a well-planned trip as compensation for giving up the biggest part of their holidays.

According to advance dope there will be three exceptionally strong cage teams in the Southwest Conference this year. Texas, T C U, and S M U are conceded the inside track on the road to the championship with the balance of power about equally distributed among them. However, the Arkansas Razorbacks can always be counted on to place a strong team in the field and this year the Hogs have twelve men on their squad who stand six feet or better sans footgear. The big-boy of the club, a sophomore center by the name of Albertson, carries around with him six feet and five inches of stature.

Intramural athletics at the college have been having a strenuous time getting under way during the past few weeks. The Thanksgiving holidays broke into the schedule and caused several postponements and the recent ruling cancelling all student gatherings until the flu situation improves further halted competition. With the Christmas holidays only about ten days in the future the program will probably be considerably behind schedule when the first of the year arrives.

Charlie Cummings, Aggie football captain-elect, will be an inspiring leader for the team next year. Charlie is a hard, clean player and an untiring worker and no man could have been selected who would have been more popular with the other men on the squad. His great play during the past season won for him much favorable comment and his name appeared on several all conference selections. Next year which will be his last of conference competition should find him at the head of the field at his position.

Joe Brown of the abysmal mouth returns to the screen in his latest comedy, "You Said a Mouthful." Very, very appropriate. As a stranded book keeper, Joe gets tangled in a series of scrapes when he is taken for a famous Canadian swimmer. Picture stealing in comedies may be difficult but Farina, formerly in "Our Gang" comedies succeeds in doing just that. Farina is Joe's trainer for the Catalina Island marathon swimming contest.

Cast: Joe E. Brown, Ginger Rogers, Farina, Preston Foster, Sheila Terry, Guinn Williams, and Harry Gribbon; direction: Lloyd Bacon; story: William B. Dover.

Exploiting Sax Rohmer's latest novel about that insidious old sample of yellow peril, Dr. Fu Manchu, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has borrowed Boris Karloff to play the feature role in "The Mask of Fu Manchu." A nice picture for the audiences that like their thrillers unrefined and laden with tortures, weird intrigues, and scientific nightmares.

Cast: Boris Karloff, Lewis Stone, Karen Morley, and Myrna Loy; direction: Charles Brabin; story: Sax Rohmer.

Aha, the depression involves the idle rich, too. Tallulah Bankhead and Robert Montgomery start out in the picture "Faithless" as a couple of the idle rich idling away their lives until they become involved in the avalanche in 1930. The two lovers see the parting of the ways when all of both's money goes overboard. The plot involves several complications such as Tallulah becoming another man's mistress to keep from starving, some street walking scenes, etc., but ends up as all popular movies do with the true lovers entwined in each other's arms.

Cast: Tallulah Bankhead, Robert Montgomery, Hug Herbert, Lawrence Grant, and Louise Closser Hale; direction: Harry Beaumont; story: Mildred Cram.

In old Vienna, that scion of the noble old house of von Degenthal, Herbert Marshall, experiences difficulty in paying off the old family debts in the picture "Evenings for Sale" so he tries his hand at gigoloing. This doesn't get over very well with his true love, Sari Maritza, and so we have a story. Charlie Ruggles and Bert Roach are in the cast insuring comedy for the picture.

Cast: Sari Maritza, Herbert Marshall, Charlie Ruggles, Bert Roach, Mary Boland, and Lucien Littlefield; direction: Stuart Walker; story: I. A. R. Wylie.

JONAH

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Late Dean of Men,
University of Illinois.

The first thing that comes to mind when one mentions the name of Jonah is his escape with the whale, which, if the truth be told, is probably the most trivial and unimportant event in Jonah's history. The thing that really counts is Jonah's character. We could leave out the story of the whale and we should still have the important details left. The Bible tells little about Jonah's family. It merely mentions his father's name. I suspect, however, from the way he acted that he was an only child with maybe a grandmother or two or a few uncles aunts, to spoil him, for Jonah was one of those boys who didn't willingly do the things he didn't like to do.

He must have been a good boy. The Lord wouldn't have chosen him to go to Nineveh to try to get the town cleaned up and the laws enforced and a little order established. I suppose he was one of those boys who had "never given his mother a moment's trouble or unhappiness." Evidently he had not been trained to do unpleasant things, and he had been used to sleeping until some one called him. You will recall that when the storm was on, and every one else was tearing about trying to keep the ship from going down, they found Jonah sound asleep waiting for the alarm clock to go off or for a freshman to wake him up. No; he had never been used to getting up without being called.

He must have been a smart fellow, though, or it never would have occurred to anyone to send him to a place like Nineveh with any hope that he would reform the place. Jonah was smart enough; he was in a general way good enough, what he lacked was a sense of duty, the backbone to tackle a hard job and carry it through whether it was so far?

EVERY undergraduate is judged by his class and campus record. Usually the outstanding men in college are those whose energy springs from a vital, healthy body.

A common enemy of health is constipation. It may cause loss of energy, lack of appetite, sleeplessness.

Try this pleasant "cereal way" to health. Two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will promote regular habits. ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk," vitamin B, and iron. Ask that it be served at your fraternity house or campus restaurant.

The most popular ready-to-eat cereals served in the dining-rooms of American colleges, eating clubs and fraternities are made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. They include Kellogg's Corn Flakes, PEP Bran Flakes, Rice Krispies, Wheat Krumbles, and Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit. Also Kaffee Hag Coffee—real coffee that lets you sleep.
