A boy and a girl were dancing and the boy said to the girl:

"What a beautiful light you have in your eyes, my dear."

"Oh, that's because of the beautiful color of the dress I'm wearing," said the girl. "You see, I have chameleon eyes and they light up to the color of the dress I have on."

"Fine," said the youth, "the next time we go out in my car, I hope you'll wear a green dress."

When I marry, I'm going to cook, sew, wash and darn my husband's socks, lay out his pipe and slippers, and read to him evenings. What more could a husband ask than that?

"Will we ever have a woman president?"

"Of course not! A president has to be over thirty-five years of age."

Nearly all raise their hands.

Prof: That's fine. You're the very group to whom I wish to speak. There is no twenty-fifth chapter.

—Red Cat

She: John dear, I wouldn't let anyone else kiss me like this.
