STUDENT FORUM

Next year's Battalion will carry a student forum in which any student may have printed anything that he may write so long as it is of interest to the student body and signed by the student by which it is written.

The purpose of this column will be to serve as a medium through which the general opinions of the student body may convey the needed reforms at A and M to the faculty, board of directors, and others officially interested in the college.

It is hoped that the students will take an interest in the column, individually, and express their opinions in a way that will be beneficial in obtaining changes that will go far in the way of making A and M a more liberal and democratic school.

BE A TRUE EX-AGGIE

Unlike ex-students of most colleges, an Aggie graduate is always an Aggie. Through the A and M Ex-Students Association, seniors have an opportunity to ally themselves with a body of men that is known throughout the country for its school loyalty and spirit and for the lasting friendship of its members. The purpose and aims of the Association explain its importance: to help A and M students by forming student loan funds and to help A and M by keeping alive the friendships and contacts of college days.

Ordinarily it would seem unnecessary to urge a graduating class to join such an organization. But for the continued progress of the Association, whose existence depends upon A and M graduates, and for the welfare of this year's class, whose degree of so-called independence is in a large measure determined by the profitable business and social relationships that civilized man and his fellows may enjoy, the A and M Ex-Students Association sends forth an appeal and an invitation to the seniors of 1933.

APPRECIATION

On behalf of the student body, The Battalion wishes to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Duncan for his generosity in serving hot coffee and cakes every night during these last two weeks. Tables were set up in the mess hall annex and waiters served hot coffee with sugar and cream continuously from ten until one o'clock. Students have been consuming, on the average about forty gallons of coffee a night.

Campus Personalities

HUGO VILLA, SCULPTOR

Of the numerous skilled workers, craftsmen, and artists that have come to the Texas A and M campus to participate in the present building program, not the least of these is Hugo Villa, sculptor and philosopher in stone. From his younger days of tramping over northern Italy as a concert violinist, to the tireless hours spent carving colossal figures of American patriots from the raw cliffs of Stone Mountain and Mount Rushmore, the life of Hugo Villa reads like a fantastic story book.

The story begins July 20, 1886, when he was born in Piedmont, Italy. He was the first child of a doctor-father, who fancied his son following in his footsteps. So the boy was sent to Torino, Italy to study the medical profession; and while there he took lessons in violin and on the harp. Soon he found it much easier to practice his music than study surgery and medicine, and finally gave way to his artistic inner-self and determined to become a musician. For the next few years he played in an orchestra in various cities in his native Italy; to support himself and send his two younger brothers through medical school.

At the age of twenty-two years he entered the Beaux-Arts of Torino to study sculpturing. During the pursuit of his education there, he won a scholarship and went to Rome for two years of training.

Having finished this phase of his education, Mr. Villa joined the old art master that had trained him at Torino, and together they traveled over Europe doing portraits. During this time they portrayed the royal families of England, Russia, and Holland together with the royalty of many less prominent nations. Next he received the commission to go to Siam with a group of artists and architects to work on and in the royal palace at Bangkok, Siam. He was engaged in modeling work and continued this work until he was stricken with yellow fever and was forced to return to Piedmont.

In 1918, Hugo Villa entered a chapter in his life that brought him to the North American Continent; and hence, into the thoughts of nearly every American follower of art and sculpture. At this time he left for Mexico City with the cathedral in that city. After finishing this job, he was an instructor in sculpture at the Beaux Arts School of Mexico, for three years, and finally ended his five year sojourn in that country as director of the Mexican National Museum.

Hugo Villa came to New York City in 1918 to become the assistant of Gutzon Borglum who was

H. K. Westerman, Llano, will be the senior publicity manager and W. B. Allen, Hull, was elected his junior assistant.

At a business meeting following the election of officers, plans were made for the livestock show to be held the afternoon of June 2 in the animal husbandry pavillion. Senior members of the livestock judging team will discuss beef cattle, swine, sheep, and horses as they are shown. Sometime during the afternoon, E. J. Kyle, dean of the school of agriculture, will formally present medals to the winners of the livestock judging contests held during the year.

Before the meeting closed, Fitzhugh, as retiring president, gave a brief resume of this year's activities and suggested means of overcoming the obstacles that will probably confront the club next year.

planning to undertake the job of portraying a scene on the side of a solid granite cliff that later became known to all the world as Stone Mountain Memorial in Georgia. Still affiliated with Borglum, he was in full charge of all his work on the Mount Rushmore National Memorial in the Black Hills, South Dakota. Mr. Villa worked as assistant to Borglum for fourteen years and was in charge of the execution of all his jobs during that time.

Recently it has been the good fortune of those in charge of the building program at Texas A and M College to secure the services of Mr. Villa. He is doing all the figure work in the new buildings that are being erected. Outstanding among the works that he has completed are a bust of Dr. Mark Francis and a portrait medallion of the father of Professor F. W. Hensel. The first was done from a life pose and the latter was done from a photographic portrait.

Mr. Villa's present studio is located just behind the Textile Engineering Building and he welcomes visitors at all times.

NOTE:—The accompanying picture was taken with Mr. Villa on location at the Black Hills project. He is shown coming down over George Washington's forehead at an elevation of about five hundred feet from the ground.

Mother of Professor W. F. Munnerlyn Dies

Friends of Professor W. F. Munnerlyn, instructor of Poultry Husbandry, will be sorry to hear of the death of his mother, Mrs. J. M. Munnerlyn of Waco.

Mrs. Munnerlyn died Monday, May 29, after an illness of several months. Her two sons who survive her are both graduates of the college; W. F. Munnerlyn, Class of '26, and J. M. Munnerlyn, Class of '32.

PRESENTATIONS MADE

battalion colors, as the most proficient company of the engineer corps.

Battery E, Field Artillery, J. L. Cunningham, San Antonio, captain, was awarded the James Sullivan trophy, an intramural standard, as unit with highest participation record in intramural athletics.

L. C. Roots, Jr., Denison, was awarded medal as individual high point man in intramural scoring. He also was awarded fountain pen and pencil set because Company C, Engineers, of which he was intramural manager, had the highest participation record in intramural sports for the year. Every member of this company entered one or more of the sixteen intramural events held throughout the year.

"T" medals were awarded lettermen in the various varsity sports.
