

He: But I thought you said you worked at the Naval Observatory.

In spite of the depression, marriage licenses are cheaper—same Union prices.

—Black and Blue Jay

If all the politicians were laid end to end some would lie still while others would still lie.

—Exchange

Chem. Prof.: "What is the outstanding contribution that chemistry has given the world."

Frosh: "Blondes."

—Cougar's Paw

She was born in the hill country and hasn't been on the level since.

—Phoenix

An' how much mought ye be chargin' for advertisin' for missin' people?

Thoity cents an inch.

That cuts me out. Me brudder is six feet tall!

—Skipper

Twenty: "Give me a man that's good, and kind, and true."

Thirty: "Give me a man."

—Aggievator

'Tis better to burp and
Bear the shame
Than to swallow the burp
And bear the pain.

—Puppet

Social: "I hear that you dropped some money in Wall Street. Were you a bull or a bear?"

Istic: "Neither, just a plain, simple ass."

—Phoenix

He, pulling over to the side of the road: "I don't believe you have a mind of your own."

She, nervously: "You just wait and see!"

—Aggievator

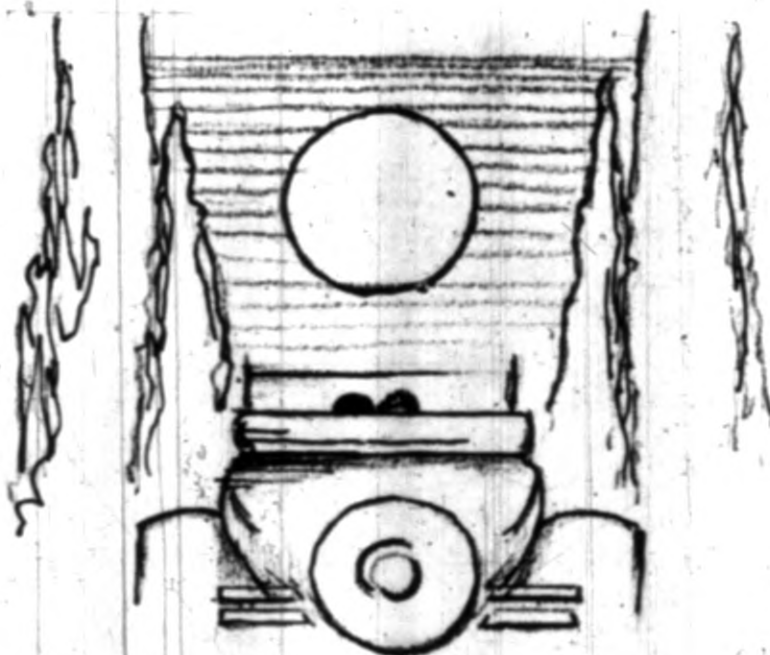

The new bride was very much concerned upon finding twin bed in the bedroom. When asked what was the matter, she replied: "I certainly thought we would get a room to ourselves."

—Skipper

Are you in favor of women taking part in public affairs?

Yes, if you really want the affairs public.

—The Old Line

He—I can read you like a book
She—Thanks to Braille!!