IF HE DIDN'T RANK INJUSTICE, SAYS MRS.

It is understood ladies of the Friendly Ten Bridge Club are going to vote Mrs. Doc Gillingsby a hand-knitted sweater, as having made the shrewdest re-act to a husband of any local denizen this week. It seems that Thursday evening Doc came in at nearly midnight, and when taxed with his late appearance tried weakly and on the spur of the moment to offer a plausible excuse.

"The fact is," he said airily, "I've been to the dog show."

"Have you?" snapped Mrs. Gillingsby, with a cold stare. "Well, did you win a prize?"

NOTICE

If the salesman who sold me that sack of More-Milk Cow Feed is back any time soon, I will appreciate it if he will drop around and read that advertisement to the cow, too.—HENRY WAITES.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Many old, worn-out husbands can be made to look like new if they are dipped in benzine and scrubbed briskly with a nail brush.

If that space of living-room wall looks bare, why not shift the ice box there and have the plumber move your sink in next to it? Of course, that leaves the kitchen pretty bare itself.

Quite frequently if the old clock will not run, it can be made to run by standing on its head. And many a long winter hour may be whiled away watching members of the family try to stand on their heads to tell the time.

Henry Waites is still sitting at nights trying to figure out fast one his wife tossed over his head Tuesday evening. It seems Henry folded back the paper, an observed: "You know, here's a real interesting article. A well-known scientist says, the cleverness of the father often proves a stumbling-block for the son."

"Goodness me," said Mrs. Waites "it's a relief to know our Junior won't have anything to tell."

AUNTY BELLUM'S Question Box

Dear Aunty: I have been given a new fur coat for my birthday, but I can not enjoy it for thinking how the poor animal must have suffered in order I might get it—Housewife.

Dear Housewife: Tut, tut. Let your husband worry about himself.

Dear Aunty Bellum: My wife worries me haggard to wear light gray flannel pants. How can I make her shut up? I would feel horribly conspicuous on the street if I had light gray pants on.—Taxpayer.

Dear Taxpayer: Not half as conspicuous as if you didn't.

Dear Aunty: I have a dumb child who insists on reading your column every week and I am trying to break him of it. How shall I proceed?—Mother of Three.

Dear Mother of Three: You're a fine one to be talking about dumbness.

Dear Aunty: Yesterday I read your column aloud for the first time to our cat, and at the close of it she jumped up with a loud noise and went spang through the window. I haven't seen her since. Where do you suppose she can be?—Wilfred.

Dear Wilfred: She's just out looking for last week's newspaper.

GENUINE REST CURE, STATES MR. WAITES.

Blessings of nature were pointed out by Henry Waites last Saturday afternoon, when he heaved a sigh and said: "By George, I can hardly wait for Sunday for that afternoon nap to begin."

"Why," said his auditor, "I didn't know you slept after dinner on Sunday?"

"I don't," said Henry simply. "My wife does."

PERSONAL AND PAST.

Joe Peaberry, called as a witness in Judge Barnothing's court Friday morning, did not make a satisfactory witness, as he could not even describe the stairs at his own home.

"All right, all right, tell us," said an attorney, fixing Joe with a glare. "How do these stairs run, Mr. Peaberry?"

"Well," muttered the dazed Joe "when I'm upstairs they run down and when I'm downstairs they run up."

Considerable interest was aroused here last week by Ike Fitchey's attempt to learn tombstone carvings. Ike had a beauty started, which read "Gone to Home," but the slab of marble was too narrow around when he had finished it had the inscription "Gone to H."

Doc Gillingsby is understood to have rejected the offer of a salesman to sell him a book on how to make a dollar go farther. Doc says they have already gone so far he has not seen one in five years.

"Drop in again," said Doc. "when you have a book on how to make a dollar come closer."

WITH THE SICK.

Joe Peaberry, who recently received a new almanac, read a page and had all the symptoms, until he turned to the next page and found if they continued he would have scattered thunder-showers, with low barometric areas in the midwest and a severe blizzard on Feb. 27.

Friday night Joe Peaberry advertised for boarders. Saturday morning the Peaberry cat presented them with seven kittens.

Spring Football Practice Enters Final Workouts

Competition Keen for All Positions on Team.

Hard daily scrimmages are being featured by the spring football practice as Coaches Homer Norton and Cal Hubbard begin the fourth and final week of spring training. This afternoon, the entire squad took part in the hardest scrimmage so far this season. Together with the short daily scrimmages, several more long scrimmages that take into play every member of the squad are planned by Norton before the training period is over.

According to Coach Norton, the team has taken an excellent hold on the fundamentals of blocking, which have been stressed the past week, and the next few days will be devoted to the fundamentals of tackling. The purpose of the tackling exercises will be to teach the players to do more than merely stop the ball carrier. In the words of Hubbard, 270 pound all-American tackle, "the coaches intend to teach the boys not only how to stop the ball carrier the quickest, most efficient way, but also to teach them how to tackle in such a fair hard way that the ball carrier will feel like running the other way the second time the tackler comes toward him."

After spending the next few days on tackling, the coaches plan to finish up the training period by running and passing plays, practicing on punting, showing formations of returning kicks, and introducing a few more plays. In the short time of training, only a few complete plays will be brought to the team, but the remainder will be given to the team at the beginning of regular training next fall.

COMPETITION KEEN Showing more interest in spring training than ever before in the history of A and M, candidates for positions on the team are giving such strong competition for places that every position on the team is open and, according to Norton, not a single man has a place cinched on the team. For every place

JUDGE DISAPPROVES BERLIN MEET

New York, N. Y.—The stand of those American athletic groups which voted to hold the 1936 Olympic games in Berlin was deplored here by Judge Irving Lehman, president of the Y. M. H. A. board. Judge Lehman said that "the issue involved is the violation of a basic principle of the international Olympic protocol."

there are from two to four men that are fighting with such zeal and interest that no lines of discrimination can be drawn between them.

Competition is probably greatest in the backfield with at least thirteen men outstanding for these positions. Muggins Fowler has been showing up exceptionally well as a triple-threat man and an all-around back. Some of the others are Nash Thompson, "Grandpa" Gregory, Percy Reid, Fred Wright, "Bill" Walker, "Bill" Couser, Wilbert Bandow, L. P. L'Hommedieu, Sid Martin, Reese Newsome, Jack Stringfellow, and Leslie Cummings. Cummings, who is a brother to Captain Charlie Cummings of last year's team, has been playing in the back field, but originally entered as a guard.

For the center positions, Stanfield Stach, Jack Roach, and Charlie Deware, Jr. have been the most outstanding so far. At end, "Pete" Dowling, Charlie Rollins, Bill Stages, Max Bohline, Taylor Wilkins, and Clifford Haynes are doing good work.

Odell Conoley, John Crow, Stapp Maxwell, and Jack Burk are the most outstanding threats for guard posts while Wharton Jordan, W. H. Miller, C. E. Barber, G. J. Clark, A. B. Murphy, John Whitfield, and Nick Willis will likely see service next year at the tackle positions.

"E" Field Artillery Leads Intramural

Organization standings in the intramural race show various changes as a result of the outcome of the volleyball, horseshoe pitching, and wrestling contests which have just been concluded. Battery "E", Field Artillery, continues in the lead with a difference of thirty points separating them from Company "C" Engineers, who are settled in second place.

Tabulations prepared by T. M. Weaver, senior intramural manager, show the ten leading organizations to be as follows.

Organization	Points
1. "E" F A	626.5
2. "C" Eng	595.5
3. "C" F A	585.5
4. "A" Sig C	577.5
5. "B" Eng	575.0
6. "D" F A	574.5
7. "F" F A	573.5
8. "B" Inf	552.5
9. "B" Sig C	547.5
10. "A" Inf	547.0

Industrial Arts To Hold Banquet April 9

Plans for the annual Industrial Arts Club Banquet to be held in the Mess Hall the night of April 9 were discussed at the regular meeting of the club Tuesday night, March 26. George H. Fern, Austin, state director of vocational work, will be the principle speaker, with E. L. Williams, state supervisor of vocational work, giving a short talk, according to A. E. Caraway, Lufkin, club president.

Officers of the club for the ensuing year will be elected at the banquet.

The Industrial Arts inspection trip will be made to San Antonio on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, April 16-18. All the seniors will attend and the juniors may be allowed to go. E. L. Williams will have charge of the plans and supervision of the trip and will accompany them on the inspections.

"B" Engineers Cop Volleyball Title

Company "B" Engineers defeated Company "B" Infantry, the defending champions, two games to one to cop the intramural volleyball championship Monday, March 19. In the semi-finals Company "B" Engineers defeated Company "C" Engineers and Company "B" Infantry emerged victorious over Company "H" Infantry.

Members of the winning team who will receive intramural medals are J. H. Richardson, Sherman; F. B. Bailless, Houston; L. E. Lee, Houston; W. O. Threadgill, Bellvue; J. H. Echterhoff, San Antonio; M. H. Sarza, Monterrey, Mexico; and W. G. Roach, Houston.

ROSSINING, N. Y.—Although most of them aren't going anywhere for some time, 200 inmates of Sing Sing recently listened with rapt attention to a lecture on weather forecasts.

Professor Nelson was the first of 12 New York University faculty members who are to deliver lectures at Sing Sing during the next few weeks.

...here it is in a nutshell

THERE are just about three common-sense questions to ask about pipe tobacco:

"First, is it made to smoke in a pipe?"

"Is it cut in big enough flakes to smoke cool and mild?"

"Does it have a pleasing flavor that leaves you hankering for more?"

"I guess I've been smoking pipes for as many years as you've been born, and when it comes to pipe tobacco... here it is in a nutshell. Smoke Granger."
