AT THE ASSEMBLY HALL—

Saturday Night; first show: "Women in His Life."

Saturday Night; second show: "Sitting Pretty."

Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at the Palace: "Bottoms Up."

A frothy fantasy of a loud-mouthed press agent and his four-limbed who break into Hollywood t-la-Ballyhoo, by virtue of Mr. Tracy's oratorical abilities. Behind-the-scenes stuff, and John Boles takes on the heavy end with Thelma Todd, the school teacher what came up in th' world.

Two song hits presented, but easy on the extravagant production scenes. The four down-and-outers ride to fame on fake nobility, which is the pipe-dream Tracy's idea, and finally get caught with the goods. After which Spencer takes the runout powder in favor of Boles, who had honorable intentions in the first place. First time this picture has been run in Texas.

Cast: Spencer Tracy, John Boles, Thelma Todd, Pat Patterson, and Herbert Mundin.

Preview Saturday Night; Sunday and Monday at the Palace: "Private Life of Henry VIII."

Who was a bounder, by all the laws of nature and a few, he invented for himself. The executioner and he were big buddies. When he got married, it was an omen for the grave-diggers to sharpen up their shovels. And when it came to gastronomic gymnastics, King Henry was the best. Whole birds and beasts he would eat at a sitting. Such delicacy . . . such poise . . . such . . .

This is a light satire on the sixteenth century Tudor Court. It's the second in the series of historicals, and keep the weather-eye cocked for more following. A neat little gag is where the King's fourth wife makes herself pretty tough on the eyes on her wedding night, and sits up playing cards with his nubs all night. That's a rough way to treat even a rascal, but the worst of it is; she beats him out of jewelry, clothes, and even herself.

This thing makes nice laughing, but one would class it hysterical before he would historical . . . that is; if he wants to class it.

Cast: Charles Laughton, Robert Donat, Lady Tree, Binnie Barnes, Elso Lanchester, and Merle Oberon.

Tuesday and Wednesday at the Palace: "Mystery of Mr. X."

Robert Montgomery, fast becoming the most versatile actor of the screen, buds forth this time in a scare picture wherein crazy killers and counter-plots are predominant. Set in foggy London, Scotland Yard takes a drubbing by the mysterious killer until young Robert clears things up at the risk of his own life. Good photography, as in the case with most Montgomery pictures, and a good looking woman shuffled in the deck for motive in a few little tricks. Lewis Stone, for the first time in his career, "Sirs" someone on the set.

Cast: Robert Montgomery, Elizabeth Allen, Lewis Stone, Ralph Forbes, and Henry Stephenson.

College Education "Does Pay" States College President

Clinton, N. Y.—Approximately 9 per cent of all college graduates make good in business, Dr. Fredrick C. Ferry, president of Hamilton College, declared this week.

He estimated that from 10 to 25 per cent of non-college men are equally successful. His statement was made in connection with statistics showing that a college education "does pay."

Jack Collin's girl hit him with an iron leaf, and he's in the hospital with a cracked skull. It was the oak leaf from the center of a dining-room table.

rine Lang of Kurten; Galveston, Miss Edna Moody; Calvert, Miss Bess McIntosh; Navasota, Miss Mary Terrell; State of Louisiana, Miss Virginia Cooksey of Clarks, La.

The list of duchesses cited will be considerably increased, various cities and educational institutions not yet having announced selections, those in charge of plays for the ball and pageant have announced.

The list of court attendants so far selected includes: Misses Ruth Beard, Lois Kraft, Frances James, Ann Cline, Ina Harrison, Frances Thomas, Dorothy Adair, Lucile Vick, Martha Carrington, Margaret Pasler and Patricia Chance, all of Bryan; Misses Josephine Dunn, Bennie Rea Marburger, Christobel Bailey and Jean Sanstedt, all of College Station.

Texas Artists Place Work On Exhibition

Oils, water colors, and etchings by some of the most prominent Texas artists, comprising the annual Texas Fine Arts Exhibit, have been placed on display in the architectural library on the fourth floor of the academic building. The exhibit, which will be here for about two weeks, will be on display daily from eight until five o'clock and nightly from seven until ten o'clock.

The exhibit this year is quite an improvement over the past year's collection, having many pictures of great merit, according to C. J. Finney, associate professor of architecture. Two especially meritorious canvasses, Professor Finney said, were Garden Bailey's "Yucca" and Steffi Orth-Wiesner's "Portrait of Rosenbaum." They are from Houston and Fort Worth respectively. Of the landscapes, the work of Frank Klepper in his "Rosa's Lane" and Ann Stubbs in her "Shacks on Waller Creek" create quite an atmosphere in paint, Professor Finney added.

LANGFORD ILL.

Ernest Langford, head of the architecture department has been confined to his bed for the last week with an attack of tonsillitis. His condition, it is reported, is improving, and it is expected that he will be able to assume his normal duties shortly.

Architectural and Textile Engineers Join Engineers' Day

L. O. Zapp, Houston, general chairman of the Engineers' Day program, announced Tuesday that the addition of two more engineering departments which will exhibit displays at the Engineers' Show to be held May 12.

The Textile Engineers, chairmaned by Charles Van de Putte, San Antonio, will present an exhibit portraying each individual step in the production of cloth, beginning with the raw cotton and completing their display with the finished product. The Architectural Engineers will enter typical projects drawn by student architects as their contribution, according to K. E. Zimmerman, chairman for the program of that department.

Present plans are to have an afternoon demonstration from 3 to 5:30 and an evening session from 6:30 to 8, but these periods depend entirely upon the size of the exhibits entered by the various departments, and the length of each period will probably be increased in order that the spectators may get full benefit from each display.

— to keep on hand 350,000 bales of Turkish tobacco to add something to the taste

So important is Turkish tobacco in the Chesterfield blend that we maintain a modern up-to-date tobacco factory in the far-off city of Smyrna. Turkish tobacco adds something to the taste and aroma of a cigarette that no other tobacco can give. It means something that Chesterfield always has in storage upwards of 350,000 bales of this aromatic Turkish leaf. This Turkish tobacco is blended and cross-blended with ripe mild home-grown tobaccos to give Chesterfields a taste and aroma that is not like other cigarettes. Everything that money can buy is used to make Chesterfield the cigarette that's milder, the cigarette that tastes better.

College careers are carved with VITALITY

COLLEGE honors, on the campus and in the classroom, usually go to the energetic men. Their enthusiasm and good spirits are founded upon good health—and regular habits.

Too frequently, undergraduates permit vitality to be sapped by common constipation. This ailment can be corrected by eating a delicious cereal.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to promote regularity, as well as vitamin B and iron. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Ask that it be served at your fraternity house, eating club or campus restaurant.
