RIDING THE AIRWAYS

THE ONE AND ONLY "Schnozzler" will soon replace Cantor on the Sanborn hour. It is hoped that Durante will offer less of the slapstick and give Rub-inoff and his orchestra, which can out "heigh de o" Calloway and out sax Lombardo, more time for his swell arrangements.

Henry Busse and his 20 piece band are now mixing business with pleasure on their broadcasts for Schlitz from the beer city. His harmonizing trio, Dot, Kay and Em, is Houston reared, having begun its career at the Metropolitan there.

The new Terraplane number, featuring Al Trahan, comedian with a different style, promises to be a high spot of the summer season. McNamee is the middle man with variety being offered by Lennie Hayton's orchestra, the Saxon sisters, and male quartet.

Rudy Vallee's Variety Hour seems to be the testing ground for young talent. For all the grapefruit tossed, Rudy is popularly recognized as the dean of discovering new entertainers and his Connecticut Yankees has steadily gained fans since its first rendition of the "Stein Song."

George Hall's orchestra with the winsome miss, Loretta Lee, continues to offer its own brand of dance music from the Hotel Roosevelt in New York. Hall is a regular CBS entertainer.

George Olsen and his orchestra will be found all around the dial for some time to come, having left the Hotel Pennsylvania this week for a country-wide tour.

One of the best variety hours of the week can be had from San Francisco on Saturday evenings. Meredith Wilson and his orchestra assist an all star cast which includes the original of "Some fun, eh, keed!" and Senator Fishface, the old gent with the troublesome tongue.

For a regular list of "who's who" of the orchestras now playing in the windy city, rest the dials on WNEW, Chicago, which seems to have a monopoly on all night spot remote broadcasting there.
