He left coaching to spend a few years in professional baseball. His first contract was with Paris in the Texas-Oklahoma league, then with Fort Worth in the Texas League and with the St. Louis Cardinals—who won the right to play in the World Series this week by the effective pitching of the Dean brothers—Diszy and Paul.

In September 1928 "Little Hig" was back at A and M as a freshman football, basketball, and baseball coach and remained in that capacity until January 1931 when he assumed the duties of head baseball coach. Too much cannot be said about "Hig's" success as a baseball coach for he piloted them well and has never piloted them as a second division club yet. Last year with so much inexperienced material Southwest sports scribes predicted that A and M and Baylor would fight it out for the cellar position, Coach Higginbotham developed another Championship baseball team.

NPHC WAGES WAR AGAINST SLUMS

As one of its aims the National Public Housing Conference, which held its meetings in the Hotel Peabody in New Orleans, enlisted the youth of the country in the crusade against the slums. These two conferences are to be followed by others in Denver, San Francisco, and St. Louis, for which dates have not yet been set. This series of educational conferences is part of the campaign being waged by the N. P. H. C. to stimulate housing action in these states and cities still without housing authorities, which would enable them to take advantage of the federal funds that are now being offered for the reconstruction of the slums.

As they may be connected to the housing program advocated by the Conference, the youth sections of these conferences will devote special attention to population trends, decentralization of industry, transportation, electrical power, and other factors that seem to be affecting the future of the American cities. Urging its adoption, this program, as stated to President Roosevelt in a recent memorandum, includes provisions for the formation of a permanent housing division in the Department of the Interior, formulation by the encouragement of local housing authorities by municipalities to deal with the slum problem.

In this memorandum, the National Public Housing Conference stressed the necessity for leaving to the local authority the solution to the city housing problems, which would operate on funds loaned by the federal government.

BANKHEAD WORK NEAR COMPLETION
700,000 EXEMPTION TAGS ISSUED

Contrasting to the quiet, scholarly atmosphere in the offices of the deans on the second floor of the new Administration Building is the click-click-ping of comptometers, the hurly calls for county agents, the 24-hour-a-day activity on the building's top floor where this week some 550 employees completed issuing Texas' quota of cotton tax exemption certificates under provisions of the Bankhead Act. Work was begun immediately toward issuing certificates covering the state's ten per cent reserve allotment.

Figures just released by the State Allotment Board reveal that approximately 700,000 certificates, issued to Texas' 236 cotton counties, have been released to Texas farmers since August 10. These certificates represent a Federal allotment to Texas farmers of 3,237,000 bales of cotton, or 854,000 bales more than the government's estimated yield in Texas for this year.

A progress report issued by the Cotton Production Section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in Washington showed that on September 15, Texas had issued 135,000 more certificates than all the remaining 16 cotton states combined, E. R. Eudaly, of Bryan, board chairman, said today. The task of molding an effective organization making it possible to accomplish these results became that of T. E. Rattan of McKinney, executive secretary, working in conjunction with the board and in complete charge of the personnel of employees.

Consequently, three shifts of workers have for the past eight weeks, daily and nightly, checked 344,000 farmers' applications, apportioned and tabulated their respective allotments, written, torn, and tabulated the certificates, and made final audit necessary before the release of the certificates to county agents for distribution to Texas farmers. Texas' Allotment Board is com-

The next best chance to see the Aggies make their first appearance in the East, other than seeing the team on the field, will be to watch them go through the four quarters on the lighted scoreboard play by play.

Fall Enrollments Show Considerable Increase This Year

By College News Service

A "boom" in education was noted this week as mounting enrollment returns, pouring in from American colleges and universities, swelled post-depression matriculation digits to a nation-wide breaking point.

With a total enrollment jump of about seven per cent over last year's national figure, the steady decline in registration activity, common to recent "tight" years, has been abruptly checked in American schools by the first matriculation increase since pre-depression days.

Largest gains were prominent in the Midwest states. Indications of from five to 15 per cent enrollment increases were apparent in the larger schools, while others trailed in the wake of academic activity.

Mr. Ross continued his studies at Texas University for his Ph.D. degree, on which he has been working for several summers. Dr. Edmondson did work on a seminar course at the University of Michigan.

Mr. Hayes took summer work at the University of Chicago, studying graduate English, one of the necessary subjects for his Ph.D. degree. Mr. Spriggs also took graduate work leading to his Ph.D. at the University of Chicago.

MENACE OF "FLU" IS BROKEN; HAVE FEWER PATIENTS

Lessening of Number of Cases Due To The New Hospital Policy of "No Visitors"

With thirty-five cases reported at the hospital today with influenza, as compared with seventy of yesterday, hospital attendants looked forward to a breaking up of the much-feared "epidemic" before the end of this week.

Mrs. Irene Claghorn, head nurse at the hospital, gave credit to the innovation of a "no-visitor" policy for the cracking of the "flu" media. "We had noticed that our visitors were our patients some twelve or twenty-four hours later."

"The boys have cooperated nicely hospital attendants are grateful."
