A sophomore and a freshman were walking by "B" ramp of Hart hall. They were directly behind a woman of ample and lumbering proportions.

Said the soph: "Some ramp, eh Fish?"

Chortled the fish: "Sh-h sir, she might hear you!"

At a recent meeting of one of the women's clubs, the members were discussing the history of Cleopatra, illustrating the events in her life with pictures.

When the picture of the queen poisoning her slaves was presented, one of the members remarked, "Just think! The scoundrel poisoned her slaves merely to observe their reactions while dying."

A naive old lady with humanitarian instincts bolted from her chair and indignantly interrogated "Hum! Why didn't the Humane Society prevent such beastly conduct?"

Upon being forced to lodge for the night at the city bastille, the sophomore, who had committed a misdemeanor, was asked his name by the desk sergeant.

"Jackson, sir—John Jackson."

"Quit stalling. What is your real name?"

"Sinclair Lewis."

"That's better. Next time don't try to fool me."
