

Possibility of Fare Reduction Appears Likely

Members of the Student Welfare Committee who have been investigating the possibilities of a reduction in the fare on the "Aggie" buses from eight to five cents per trip, express themselves as being more hopeful of the plan's being put into effect in the near future.

Action of the board of directors of the Bryan-College Traction Company is expected to take place the first part of this week, and will, according to committee members, be favorable if the traction people believe that the increased numbers of fares will offset the loss per individual.

Everyone concerned in the proposed move has expressed its worth as far as the promotion of the welfare of the students is concerned, but the traction company has to be assured of enough fares to cover the expenses for as yet no dividends have ever been declared. Because of this, a good many of those concerned fear that the decision will not be favorable.

"WHEN A MAN SEES RED"

Both the Aggies and the Longhorns will be fighting their hearts out for their coaches who are in their first year at the helms of their respective teams. The Aggies have not had a good season, so far as the won and lost column is concerned, but to the fair-minded Aggie who will weigh the material the Aggie mentors had to put against a classy bunch of Southwest Conference clubs this season, the coaches at Aggieland have been very successful. When the conference opened the possibility to win a game was very low. But what happened? The Aggie coaches began to search for a winning combination. Lettermen were replaced by sophomores and squaddens with good results. Over at Waco, the Aggies, with only two lettermen in the starting lineup and five sophomores, invaded Katy Park as the underdogs, before a Baylor homecoming crowd, sprinkled with many Bear football immortals, who would rather have beaten the Aggies than to win the Conference title, and trampled the Golden Bears in the turf of their own gridiron 10 to 7.

The inspired Cadets then returned to College to play the strong University of Arkansas Razorbacks the following week. The Hogs had not been beaten in the conference when they came down on the Aggies and expected to win from them by a lopsided score. But the Fighting Farmers were stubborn in that game, and held their much heavier foe to a 7 to 7 draw.

On the other hand, the Longhorns under Jack Chevigny got off to a swell start by beating the Notre Dame Irishmen on their own stomping ground, 7 to 6, and returned to the Lone Star State to beat the University of Oklahoma Sooners, Big Six team, at the Dallas Fair. The Steers then returned to Austin as great heroes and were given honor banquets and parades on every hand. Yet the Centenary Gentlemen beat them in Austin. In the first conference game of the season, for the Steers, they went to Rice and for a time it looked as though the Steers had downed the victors over Purdue, Creighton, S M U, and Loyola, when Hilliard, who was suffering with an injured hip, went in in the last period and kicked a field goal to set the Steers out ahead 7 to 9. But the Owls in a desperate effort to overcome the lead began to throw footballs right and left, and scored two touchdowns to beat the Chevignymen, 20 to 9.

Since that game the Steers have played at top speed. They tied Southern Methodist, beat Baylor by a large margin, whipped T C U 20 to 19, in Fort Worth, and journeyed to the chilly Ozarks last Friday to beat the University of Arkansas on their home field. Back over in Austin next Thursday the Longhorns, with their full strength available, and a host of Grid stars of the past on every hand to pour a traditional spirit into their souls, the Orange and White will be a hard aggregation to stop. Nothing but a high-spirited group of Aggies, with the same traditional rage buried deep in their hearts, could turn the trick.

Cal Hubbard, Aggie line coach, and five times All-American professional tackle, got a great compliment from Kyle Creighton as he was discussing Patsy Clark, now coaching the Detroit Lions professional football team in the National league. Hubbard is rated as the greatest lineman of all time by many football critics of the East. It is great to watch the huge line coach actually demonstrate to his men the way to play in that line. He loves the game he coaches, and has so perfectly played it that he can make the ordinary bystander desire to play football simply by his conversation with men in practice.

This article appears in the December 1, issue of Collier's Weekly under the head of "For Love and Money" by Kyle Crighton. "The great loss this year is Cal Hubbard (Geneva), Green Bay Packer tackle, who is held by many critics to be the greatest lineman of all time. Hubbard, standing six feet two and weighing 240—all meat and bone—is exceptionally fast and powerful. For years he so completely dominated the league that opposing teams gave up all hopes of sending a man through his side of the line. Portsmouth once determined to overcome this handicap. It was decided that the first time they got the ball they would throw Father Lumpkin (a former Dallas high school boy and a great blocking back on the Georgia Tech eleven) on a weak side play and keep at it until Hubbard was licked. On the first play Lumpkin hit Hubbard and found himself lying eight yards behind the line of scrimmage on his back. There were three attempts in all with Portsmouth losing 20 yards.

"That other play", said Lumpkin feebly, as he limped back into the huddle after the third collision. "You fellows haven't forgot that other play of our have you?"

The Aggies play the strong Michigan State team in San Antonio December 8. The Michigan State team has lost only one game.

E E Dept. Members Attend A I E E Meet

M. C. Hughes, H. C. Dillingham, R. P. Ward, N. F. Rode, and William O. Ray, members of the electrical engineering department, and R. S. Nelson of the physics department, attended a meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineering in Houston last Thursday night. A number of students were also at the meeting.

"Geophysical-prospecting for petroleum," discussed by L. J. Neuman, associate, A I E E, was the subject of the evening. Mr. Neuman outlined the history and fundamentals of magnetic, electrical, gravitational, and seismic methods of geophysical prospecting. The discussion was confined to the broader aspects of the subject and was presented in a manner easily understood even by those unfamiliar with the subject, according to Mr. Hughes.

beat the powerful Kansas State team, which is undefeated in the Big Six Conference and tied with Nebraska for the conference lead. They won 6 to 0. On this team that journeys South in December to play the Aggies is a fast hard driving half back that will bear watching. He is Warebin who plays right half back for Michigan State. He is an Allen Gould's selection of about ten of the outstanding half-backs in this country this season.

WANT TO RELIEVE TIREDNESS? . . . GET A LIFT WITH A CAMEL!

ALL TOBACCO MEN KNOW:
"Camels are made from finer, more expensive tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand."

LYMAN CHIPMAN, '37—Business Student:
"Intense concentration on the complicated financial structures of great nations may make me a better business man some day, but it sure makes me plenty tired at times right now," says Lyman Chipman. "I never let fatigue take the keen edge off my thinking. To keep mentally alert and at the same time retain my physical ease . . . well-being, I smoke Camels. I know that a Camel will chase away the dull feeling that comes after a few hours of hard study."

MISS ANNE GOULD, popular young society leader, says: "I honestly like Camel's taste better than any of the other cigarettes. And I see no reason for letting cigarettes make you nervous—Camels never make me edgy or jumpy."

CIVIL ENGINEER, Capt. Eric Loch says: "I always have Camels—rely on them for good cheer—the 'lift' they give my energy when I'm feeling 'low'! And the longer I smoke them, the more I appreciate their rich, milder flavor."
