

Marie Wilson and James Cagney Have Leads in "Boy Meets Girl"

BY PAUL KETRESEN

Leon Belesco, band leader, has decided to forsake his band for Hollywood. He signed a contract with a major studio last week for three fifty per week. The only part interesting about his accepting the salary is that what he is getting for acting is only one tenth of the profit he made a week as a band leader.

Palace Cat. Preview. Sun., Mon. "Boy Meets Girl" a picture worth the time and money. Primarily because the show is good and secondly the acting is as good as could be seen. We are introduced to Marie Wilson, in a light other than that of a dumb but beautiful blond such as she has been playing since being in Hollywood. The girl is good. You will enjoy the picture from beginning to end and praise Marie for her splendid performance. James Cagney also shows the movie going world just what acting is. Br. Cagney after a long absence from the screen has returned in great triumph. I have never seen him in better form and as ready to go as he is in "Boy Meets Girl". Pat O'Brien the easy going second lead of the picture holds up his assignment the very best and one thoroughly enjoys him throughout the entire picture.

Assembly Hall The "Gold Diggers" are with us again, bringing with them a record number of laughs, hit tunes and oh—so beautiful girls in "Gold Diggers in Paris" which comes Saturday night at the Assembly Hall. While the plot of this picture has no new features, the girls are new and that does mean something. Mr. Yalies as usual gives out as the crooner, Rosemary Lane his girl and Hugh Herbert plays a diplomat with a weakness for cut "things". The show on the whole is enjoyable and although I don't insist on your seeing it, I recommend as light entertainment, "Gold Diggers in Paris".

Assembly Hall Friady. The picture is "Life Begins in College," light entertainment but enjoyable. The Ritz Brothers cut up as usual and keep the laughs moving. I recommend the picture if nothing other than to send the meats judging team to Kansas City.

Engineers Give Resume of Summer Inspection Tour

At the initial meeting of the Agricultural Engineering Society the new president, Lonnie Stern, took charge and for a program had the individual members of the society give a short talk on their activities during the summer. The boys said they did everything from soda-jerking to farming.

The second meeting last Tuesday was entertained by the presentation of a program by three of the society members who attended a "Summer School of Industry" sponsored by nationally known manufacturers of farm implements and tractors. A resume of the trip was given by C. E. Peach of the department as follows: Lonnie Stern, Paul Dillon, and C. E. Peach left College Station on September 8 and proceeded to Chicago stopping on the way to visit the Agricultural Engineering Department of Iowa State College. From Chicago the group went to Milwaukee, Wis. where a trip through the Allis Chalmers Co. began the industrial summer school. The group as a whole was composed of sixty-six students of various colleges and at each plant was instructively entertained by lectures on the various phases of the production and distribution of farm implements and tractors. The plants visited included beside Allis Chalmers, the J. I. Case Co., International Harvester Co., Caterpillar Co. and the John Deere Plow Company. The lectures were on the implement industry, need for new ideas in the implement industry, human engineering, advertising, sales and collections, designs and production and distribution. A trip through the plants and testing departments preceded or followed each lecture. Paul Dillon gave a short talk gan to come in on the Loyalist side. But the French and Russian officers were not the equals of their German opponents, either in knowledge of military tactics or in the application of them. As a result, the insurgents, aided by foreign artillery have taken two thirds of Spain.

In China, the peasants, grimly determined to defend their ancestral homes at all costs, have held their ground, poorly armed and equipped, until virtually blasted out of their positions by German guns in the hands of the Nipponese. Even in conquered territory, the Japanese control only such territory as is in range of their artillery.

Artillery officers cannot be made overnight. It takes years of training to properly prepare a man for a position as an officer in the field artillery. For this reason A. & M. trained men are expected to play an important part in the next war as they did in the last. A. & M. trained men served gloriously in the artillery in France, and were instrumental in many of the victories won. And by the same reasoning the U. S. Army and the American people, are looking to A. & M. to furnish more artillery officers in case of another national emergency. And A. & M. with its fine staff of artillery officers who are training our Aggies, feels confident of its ability to uphold its fine reputation.

STEWART SAYS—

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

—Hints of an anti-New Dealerish Democratic plot to oust Senator Alben W. Barkley as majority leader in the upper congressional chamber when the national legislature meets next are not to be taken as indicative of any particular hostility on his fellow solon's part to the Kentucky statesman personally. No, if "Dear Alben" is demoted from his leadership to the rating of nothing but an ordinary senator it will be done as a job at President Roosevelt, not at Alben. For obvious reasons anti-New Deal Democratic sentiment on Capitol Hill is bound to be bitterer than ever before in the 76th Congress. If it can score a mean point against F. D. R. it isn't going to hesitate to do so out of consideration for Barkley's feelings.

It must be remembered that when Democratic Senatorial Leader Joseph T. Robinson died, Senators Barkley and Pat Harrison were rivals to succeed him. President Roosevelt, deeming Barkley the better New Dealer of the pair, expressed himself in favor of the Kentuckian.
