

Top, photo of the Governor and his two sons leaving the Capitol building for the Stadium ceremonies. Photographers—at least 200 of them—were already at Memorial planning the angles for their shots and inspecting lighting obstacles. Lower photo shows one of the many bands at the inauguration, this one an all-girl organization with a drum major who hops, skips, trucks and twirls a baton with the best of 'em. Around 50 high school bands were present along with those from most of the State-supported institutions and one private college, Abilene Christian College. Bad weather kept about 20 other high school bands away.
