

NATIONAL WATER POLO CHAMPS PLAY TEXAS SATURDAY

Coach Art Edmanson will take his national champion water polo team to Temple where they will play the University of Texas men Saturday in an exhibition match.

The Steers will be bidding for an upset victory over the favored Aggies, who are recognized as having one of the finest water polo teams in the country.

In a match in Gregory Gym last month, the Aggies roundly trounced the Texas team that was composed of coaches and world famous swimmers. All of the Texas players were experienced men. Some of them having played on athletic clubs on the West Coast after graduating from college.

The Aggie players making the jump are Nordhaus, Hensley, Spough, Pontieux, Hall, Couch, Armstrong, Johnson, and Denny.

Double Trouble

You're looking into the business end of a double-barreled shot-gun aimed by pretty Jane Moore, of Lake Charles, La. If the bullets don't get you, perhaps the smile will. The hunting season was closed, but with Spring in the air, the lovely Jane just had to have her day in the field.

Members of the Board of Directors of A. & M. and of the Board of Regents of the University, have been invited to the banquet and several had accepted their invitations by Monday. In addition, the banquet will also be open to student of A. & M. and of the University. Several hundred people are expected to be present at the banquet, which will be informal.
