joyable one. The Y.M.C.A. will have assistants in attendance and will furnish extra service during holidays.

Students should keep in mind the fact that the rooms are primarily to be used only as rest and lounging rooms for campus guests. The Y Committee hopes that the students will take pride in their guest lounge and will give them the fullest cooperation in this respect, since it is only by cooperation between the Y Committee and the students that the lounge can be maintained in a presentable condition. Students will be asked to use these rooms only when accompanied by ladies.

Profs Inaugurate An Informal Get Together Luncheon

A new idea has recently been introduced to this campus. It is the idea that the profs should have an informal get-together about once a week in the form of a fellowship luncheon.

Several of these luncheons were held last semester, and they turned out to be quite successful. The fellowship luncheons are held every Thursday noon. The attendance includes all members of the teaching staff, experimental station, and extension division staffs. There is no planned program, no speeches, and no business whatsoever. It is merely a get acquainted move on the part of the professors.

There is a "gentlemen's agreement" among the profs that they should sit at different tables and with different members at each luncheon. In this way the members of the different departments may become better acquainted. The meals are the same as those served to the students. The directors expect an average attendance of between 100 and 150 each week. Next Thursday will be the third luncheon of this school year.

their stateroom and secured their life preservers. "I still don't know how we did it," Miss Moore declared. "That moving around in the pitch-darkness seems more like a dream than anything else."

The two made their way up two flights of stairs and, on reaching the main deck, went directly to their lifeboat station. Every person had a certain station to report to, but many people lost their heads and, as a result, there were twice as many people at the boat as it could hold. Getting in the boat caused an even greater confusion. An error was made in the beginning when the boat was lowered to the water before the passengers were aboard. This necessitated the lowering of a rope ladder and even this broke, but was quickly repaired.

The only demonstration of cowardice was shown when a woman with a baby in her arms and another woman were making their way down the rope ladder into the lifeboat. A man suddenly forced his way to the front and went down the ladder at the same time, passing both of these women and endangering their lives.

Miss Moore pointed out that she stood on deck more than 45 minutes before her turn came to go down the ladder. Then, half-way down the ladder, the boat pulled away, too full to take on more passengers.

The captain's boat then came over and removed those remaining at that station. After pulling away from the boat, it was seen that about thirty men, including Captain Cook, still remained on the Athena. The majority of those in the captain's boat were therefore transferred to a few partially-filled lifeboats and the remaining survivors were removed from the stricken vessel.

WTAU Using 10,000-Watt Unit

Radio station KRLD's 10,000-watt transmitter has been given to A. & M. by Edwin J. Kiest, publisher of the Dallas Times Herald and owner of KR LD. The transmitter, now in operation by station WTAU here, had not been used since a new 50,000-watt unit was installed by KRLD.

Mr. Kiest has been a member of the A. & M. Board of Directors for many years. In his honor, dormitory 2 has been named Edwin J. Kiest hall.

Beasley Will Address Plant Science Seminar

At a meeting of the Plant Science Seminar to be held this week Dr. J. O. Beasley will discuss the subject, "The Production of Polyphloids in Cotton, and Their Value in Breeding Work."

Dr. Beasley returned to A. and M. September 1, after having been away from his alma mater since 1936. During his senior year, 1932, he was one of the winners of the trip to Europe that is given annually by the Department of Agronomy, for a special study of cotton in foreign countries. He remained at A. & M. until 1936, and during that period he received the master's degree, in 1934, and became assistant agronomist in the Agricultural Experiment Station. He left A. & M. to pursue advanced graduate work at Harvard University under the direction of the late Dr. E. M. East, one of the most brilliant and renowned biologists that America has produced. He received the doctor's degree from Harvard University in June, 1939, and from that time until his return to the Agricultural Experiment Station he was working with the Bureau of Plant Industry, Raleigh, North Carolina. He is now serving the Texas station in the capacity of agronomist. Since Dr. Beasley's undergraduate days he has been interested in cotton, especially in the cytology, genetics, and breeding of the plant. His contributions in this field are widely recognized.

Those who attend this meeting of the seminar may be assured of an instructive and interesting program. Officers for the present year will be elected, also. The seminar will meet in the conference room of the Agricultural Experiment Station Thursday, at 7:30 p. m. All persons interested are invited to attend.

Walton Honors New Profs With Banquet

Forty-five new faculty members of A. & M. were honored by a dinner given by President T. O. Walton in the banquet room of Sbsisa hall Friday night at 6:30 p. m.

This was the annual faculty dinner given in the fall to which all deans, department heads, and other faculty members are invited.

Louis Flores Lopez, who is 116 years old, recently married Agripine Tover Ramirez, 85, in Mexico City. They had been sweethearts since 1908.

WORK STARTS SOON ON NEW THEATER HERE

Within three days ground will be broken for the new Campus Theatre which will be located on Sulphur Springs Road about a block west of the north gate.

Wood and Scurlock of Dallas have awarded the contract for the job and will start to work as soon as their excavating equipment arrives from Marlin, which will not be more than three days. M. E. Bardwell, construction foreman, is already here.

Original plans for the theater have been slightly revamped and now call for a bigger building than was originally planned. The cost of the job was first estimated at $65,000, but because of the enlargements will probably be higher.

The job will call for 80 working days which should mean that the theater will be completed in from three to four months.

The seating capacity will be between 750 and 800. If possible a maroon and white color scheme will be carried out throughout the whole theater.

There will be a mezzanine lounge upstairs for those who come to the show early and wish to wait until it starts.

Lehberg To Head Heart O' Texas Club

Walton Lehberg of Mason was chosen president of the Heart O' Texas and Mountaineers Club for 1939-40 at a meeting of the organization Wednesday night. Other officers elected were Carl Martin of Menard, vice-president, and Bob Langford of Brady, secretary-treasurer.

Plans for the coming year were discussed. It was decided to return the traditional Christmas dance to Menard this year. The affair was held in Kerrville last Christmas, after being held in Menard for six years previous.

Methodists To Start Campaign for New Church with Banquet

Bishop A. Frank Smith, Houston, will be the principal speaker at a banquet Tuesday night to initiate a campaign for the construction of a new Methodist Church and activities building at College Station. The banquet will be held in Sbsisa hall at 7:30. Col. Ike Ashburn will be toastmaster.

Fifty out-of-town guests are expected. All Methodists and others interested are invited to attend.

In addition to Bishop Smith's address, the program for the banquet will include a discussion of the "Local Need" by Cadet Owen Watkins of Houston and a recapitulation by Rev. Glenn Flinn, College Station. Pres. Walton will welcome guests to the campus, who in turn will be introduced by the toastmaster. Musical selections will include vocal solos by D. T. Killough of the A. & M. staff.

Rev. James Carlin, pastor, and Rev. Erwin Jackson of New London, former pastor of the College Station Methodist Church, will give the invocation and pronounce the benediction.
