

A LITTLE—

A little bit of moonlight,
A little bit of gin,
A little car, a little girl,
A little midnight spin.
A little bit of blarney,
A little joke risque,
A little motor trouble,
A little time to play.
A little kiss, a little press,
A little place to park,
A little tender feeling and
A little passion spark.
A little bit of necking,
A little hug and squeeze,
A little try, a little sigh,
A little coax, a little hoax,
A little pair of knees.
A little scene well played,
And there you have the secret of
How little girls are made.

He: I prayed for you last night.
She: Next time, telephone.

He: I've never seen such dreamy eyes.
She: You never stayed so late before.

A parrot was sitting on the salon of a luxurious steamer watching a magician do tricks. The magician served notice that he was now going to do a trick never before accomplished. He pulled up his sleeves and made a few fancy motions. At that moment the ship's boilers exploded and sank the ship. About ten minutes later, as the parrot came to, floating about on a piece of driftwood, he was heard to mutter, "Damn clever, Damn clever."

First Freshman—(in the swimming class)—Are you a Delt pledge?

Second Dope—No, I backed into a stove.

She: Why do you always keep one arm free when you pet?

He: Well, some day I hope to own a car.

He: What would you do if a fellow criticized your figure?

She: Well, I wouldn't hold it against him.
