To-day's Game To Be Broadcast Over KXYZ; Send-Off Was One Of Greatest In History

Today's game will be broadcast over KXYZ starting at 2:15 p. m. It will be announced by Harry Grier with the color being given by Eddie Dunn. This game should prove interesting on the air with these two veteran broadcasters giving it to us.

Thursday's send off was one of the biggest in the history of the

Minor Sports Come To Light With Water Sports and Boxing; Aggies Get Cheesy Deal

At long last minor sports have come to life at A. & M. The boxing club has received the services of H. C. Spencer of the Engineering Drawing Department as the club sponsor. From now on the team should find things a bit easier. New equipment is the next thing in order or should it be said just equipment, for there is very little anywhere on the campus. Training schedules announced at the meeting are from 3 to 5 daily.

The swimming team is rounding into shape. That is, the individual members are, for practice will not begin until the first of December. A breast stroke man is needed. Coach Adamson is keeping his eyes open at all times to find the man to swim this race.

The water polo team, the only thing A. & M. had to boast of

Armistice Day—Peace Or War? A. & M. vs S. M. U.; Today's Games In The Southwest

Peace 21 years ago, but next Saturday the thud of leather and leather, of bone and bone, and then the show of bands by both sides will be the program for the day. The Mustangs hold an all time record of 10 wins to the Aggies' eight. So no matter how the outcome of the game might be, the Cadets can not regain the lead but they can sure satisfy a long wanted desire to win from the Ponies. It's another jinx but it seems that all the games are jinx games this year.

At any rate the sport mentors will probably have another name for John Kimbrough. To the list of "Jarrin' Jawn," "the Aggie blustering fullback," and "the man who four yards the enemy to death" school. Some 5,000 students trying to tell all the players farewell and wishing them luck looked great. As a result of the solemn way the train left the yards, with "The Spirit of Aggieland" echoing through the creek bottoms, a good number of students than had previously planned hit the road to the Ozarks.

last year, is believed to be in about as good shape as it was last year although few players are gone one way or another.

Aggie Polioist made their debut last Sunday against the Army-Faculty Freebooters and come to the field again this week-end to meet the New Mexico Military Institute, recent intercollegiate champions. This ought to be good. It's at Jackson Field 2:00 p. m. Saturday and Sunday.

We heard that the "Aggie War Hymn" was to be played and sung on a well known program this past week. It's easy for rumors to get started around this place but one on such a thing as that seems rather odd. Wonder if the Aggies just got a cheesy deal. Another team near the top in national standing received the honor.

will more than likely be addressed—the "Aggie Big Bertha."

S. M. U. meets Texas at home today to start her way to the top. Crain will again of course be the star for the Texas eleven but the S.M.U. team will boast more of an all round team if they boast any at all. They say Coach Matty Bell is crying again, but we still say it's S. M. U. over Texas.

This is the Southwest Conference and anything can happen and the Baylor-T.C.U. game might be the contest where it will. Nevertheless the Baylor line looked good and their attacks appeared stronger than those of the Frogs. It's Baylor over T.C.U.

Fordham marks up another game with the Rice Owls on the bottom side. The Houston team is having a tough time this year and may get started later on but surely not against Fordham.

In the rain or under light snow fall it still says Aggies. The A. & M. team has outpassed the Ozark boys and have outgained them running as well as held their opponents to fewer yards, so even though they'll probably be playing in heavy socks, A. & M. over Arkansas.

Lettermen On Varsity Swim Team Regular Workouts Not Started Yet

Regular Workouts Not Started Yet

According to Coach Adamson the swimming team has not started its regular workout, however, those on the team believe in keeping in condition and swim as often as possible. With a large number of lettermen back, the swimming team looks as if it might go places this year.

When the team starts working out around the 1st of December, it should consist of Conway, Japhet, Johnson, and McCarthy as the backstroke men. Couch, who is captain of this year's team and a letter man of last year, Flynn, Hensley, also a letterman, Loomis, Robertson, Rollins, Webb, and Hall will show their merits in swimming the free style. "Nickey" Ponthieux will do his best to take charge of the breaststroke, however, Coach Adamson feels that "Nickey" should not carry the full burden of the breaststroke, and is now looking for a man to keep "Nickey" company.

Paul Kettleton and Bubba Reeves, who are quite at home on the old spring board and who are good divers, will do their best to prove that diving is an accomplishment.

In general the swimming team of this year promises to be as good as last year. Coach Adamson is keeping his eyes open for new talent.

Intramurals

With Hub Johnson

Basketball should be a sport of the past at the close of next week as the leagues are just about at the end of the road. The finals should start about Friday or maybe the first of the next week.

The swimming meet was called off due to the large number of students leaving the campus, either going to Arkansas or to various points about Texas. The Class B meet will be run sometime in December but the upperclassmen meet has not yet been set.

Thursday the newspapers all over the country ran an article on screwy football. The article by Bill Boni reads as follows:
New York, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Proving that there's a bright side to a goal-line pileup with a cleat in your face, we present herewith the second issue of football's "Screwy News."

They hit the high point of confusion in a recent intramural game down at Texas A. & M. with time for about two plays, the ball in midfield and the defensive team leading, 7-6. The play was a pass, to the left end, and completed on the 40-yard line. The boy high-tailed-down the field, until only the safety man stood between him and the goal line. At that point he had a change of heart, apparently feeling he couldn't get by that last obstacle, he stopped dead in his tracks and dropkicked a perfect field goal. The game broke up in an argument, the officials made no ruling, and there was no final score. P. S.—Rules officials say the play was perfectly legal.

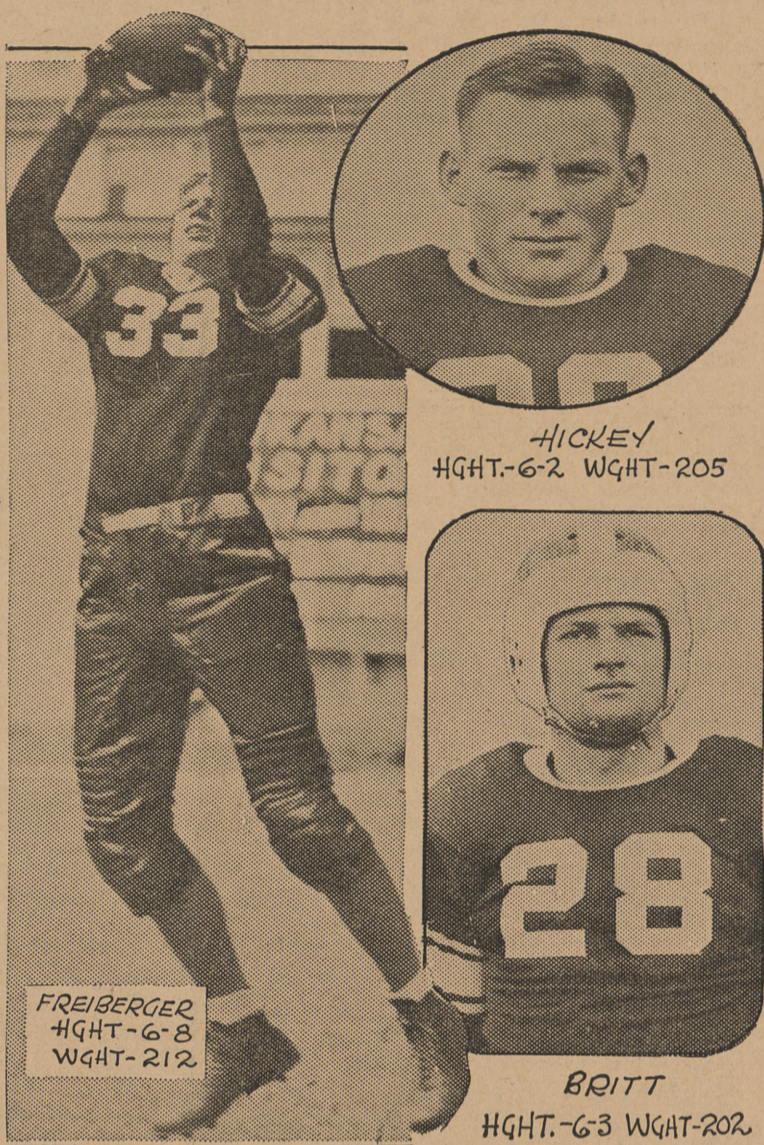

We've tried to trace this game down and failed. The question was brought up in a recent meeting of the local Quarterback Club and then sent on to the Houston club after a bit of discussion. Southwest conference Officials present at the meetings declared the play legal after a bit of wondering and later it was declared the same by Harry Viner.

At any rate it wasn't an intramural game but it was a pretty good build up.

There will be a meeting of all freshmen and upperclassmen intramural managers in the "Y" Parlor immediately after yell practice Tuesday night.

Grid Affairs In Southwest Conference At Peak Today

T.C.U. Meets Baylor, S.M.U. Plays Texas, Aggies Play Arkansas In Conference

For the first time this season Southwest Conference competition will present three conference games in one day. Since that is the maximum number of games that can be played with seven teams, it would not be an overstatement to say that grid affairs in this section are at the peak.

T. C. U. meets Baylor in Waco, S. M. U. plays Texas in Dallas and Arkansas and A. & M. are matched at Fayetteville.

What can Arkansas do against the Aggies? Many fans will answer this question promptly with, "Take a licking!" Yet the Razorbacks can't be counted out that easily. In top form, they've looked pretty good. Their line averaging 212 pounds could deal a bit of misery if the game is played on a wet field. It is a pretty well experienced one, too, but the question is, just how deep does the experience go?

The Rice Owls make their Broadway debut against Fordham's Rams in New York City. The Rams have not been as invincible as Coach Jim Crowley hoped they would be, but they are still plenty tough. Rice could gain back a lot of lost prestige by taking the Rams before the big-shot sports writers of Gotham.

T. C. U. - Baylor
About the only one of the three conference tilts that the fans will predict with any degree of confidence will be the T. C. U.-Baylor affair. The dope says the Bears; but the Frogs, in spite of their worst year in more than a decade, cannot be counted out. The Frog-Bear rivalry is one of the conference's oldest and most virulent, and upsets are no stranger to the record.

S. M. U. - Texas
S. M. U. and Texas ought to stage the thriller of the day. Both teams pack a surprising offense which has a way of exploding upon the enemy at most unexpected moments. The Mustangs have had an open date in their schedule and the rest ought to leave them ready to give the homefolks a thrill as they attempt to find an antidote for Dana Bible's bright boy, Jack Crain.

Aggies Have Another Passing Team On Their Hands Today In Razorbacks

By Jimmie Cokinos

It was the Frogs one week, the Bears last Saturday, and it will be the Hogs this afternoon. Hogs, Frogs or Bears, the teams all look like the same animal to the Farmers and will be treated accordingly—slaughter house.

The Aggies have another passing team on their collective hands. The Arkansas Razorbacks were known as the "passingest team in the nation" last year and this year boast of having another.

The Hogs' outstanding star is Kay Eakin, veteran back, who leads them into battle with his bullet-like passes. His record this year shows that he has attempted 57 heaves and completed 27, which were good for 386 yards. He is the conference's second leading punter with an average of 40.6 yards per try, having punted 31 times for 1,257 yards.

If the Aggies stop Eakin today they will also top the Razorbacks as he is their keyman, and if Eakin is clicking the Hogs will click and will be hard to stop.

The Hogs will go in the game with the memory of the 13-7 defeat plastered on them by the Cadets last year. In this game it looked as if the ole ball game was going to the Hogs towards the waning minutes of the fourth quarter, but that Kimbrough lad was yet to be reckoned with. He started a one-man-drive towards the Hogs' goal line and didn't stop till he crashed over to save the day for the Aggies.

The Aggies are in top shape for the game and are meeting the Hogs on their homecoming day. On these occasions the Razorbacks are plenty tough and if the Cadets get by with a victory they will be well on their way. So let's all stick by the radios today and help pull the Aggies over.

The famous Aggie Band, 210-strong, left last night and will be on hand for the game. They will put on an exhibition between the halves and have some new and clever formations to show the fans at Fayetteville.

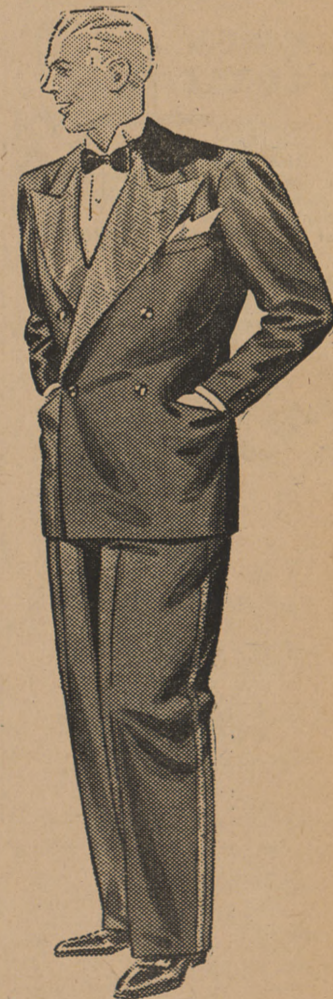

Many students were on the same special with the band members and some ventured the highways in order to be there for the game, making it possible that a smattering of the "twelfthman" will be in the stands to yell our boys to victory.
