Keyes Carson—

 was a short one with an insurance salesman. Then came another short ride with an old sailor. Finally, he was driven into Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, by a young man who worked in the New York Stock Exchange.

It was 2 a. m. Saturday morning when Keyes arrived in Pittsburgh, and from there to Canton, Ohio, the going was slow and discouraging. Already eighteen hours on the road and only 450 miles towards his goal, it is little wonder that he was becoming downhearted. Finally, however, a salesman drove him to Chicago. "This was one of the most interesting rides of the entire trip," Keyes said. "He knew his business thoroughly and explained many things about selling which have proved valuable to me since that time."

Leaving Chicago, his luck once again hit the down path. His first ride was with two old men, but Keyes left them as soon as possible—they were driving constantly at a rate of speed not exceeding twenty miles an hour. His next ride was with a boy and two pretty girls. "I hated to leave this ride," he pointed out, "but I couldn't afford to lose time having dates." On the road again, he was given a ride by a young man who had apparently just lost his sweetheart and who left little doubt in Keyes' mind as to the lack of friendship he held for feminine-kind.

Arriving in Cedar Rapids, Michigan, his next ride took him to Des Moines, Iowa. Here, once again, his usually good luck deserted him. First he took the wrong street car and then went fifty miles in the wrong direction, causing him to lose several hours valuable time. Finally arriving in Columbus, Ohio, he was given a ride by a driver who turned out to be thoroughly drunk. Keyes lost no time in getting out of the car and, later, he came upon the car overturned in a ditch, although its driver was not killed.

And then the luckiest ride of all: with a news reporter headed for California. Sixteen hundred miles driving night and day, the two of them taking turns at the wheel. Four days from New York to San Francisco—he had done it, even beating his own goal!

Next time: San Francisco back to Texas again, completing the trip in sixteen days.

will be a meeting of all first sergeants Friday night immediately after yell practice, in the "Y" Chapel, for the purpose of distributing the cards and giving further details as to their use.
 With Aggies leaving every weekend and going to all parts of the state, it would not take long to acquaint the people of the state with the cards and build up much more good will, thereby improving the hitch-hiking situation and making it much easier for Aggies to travel.

YOU, TOO, CAN BE A QUARTERBACK!

• You only weigh 150? Doesn't matter. You can't punt or pass? Okay. But can you call the next play—right—in 30 seconds with the mob howling in your ears? Notre Dame's Coach Elmer Layden reveals how quarterbacks pull miracles out of the bag with tactical skulduggery . . . tells dozens of yarns about America's greatest quarterbacks . . . shows you the tricks that make plays work—and fail. Grandstand dopesters mustn't miss this week's Post.

"MIND IF I GO TO WORK ON YOUR HUSBAND?"

"You don't care, do you, Lily, my pet? Mike doesn't mean anything to you any more, does he?" For eight long years Lily had fought to put this man out of her heart and mind, never mentioning his name because the sound of it hurt. Mike, Mike, why did you have to turn up now? . . . A modern romance of a girl cheated out of love.

Some women never do learn the best way to hold a man is to let go—at the right moment. Will Dover's steatopygic wife sagged the scales at 220—but it was her heavy hand that got her in trouble! (Plenty of chuckles in this one!) A short story.
