Textile Machinery Moved to Texas Prison System in Huntsville

The Textile Engineering Department moved out part of its cotton machinery recently, in order to make room for the wool scouring plant which is being moved in order to clear the space in front of the new dormitories where the old Wool Scouring plant building is located.

The machinery that is being moved out is being carried to Huntsville where it will be used by the State Prison System. The State Prison in return will equip all the machinery used by the Textile Engineering Department with individual motors, thereby eliminating the cumbersome line shafts now used.

for Texas and with a huge surplus, to sell to other states. He closed with the emphatic statement, "We cannot legislate ourselves into prosperity; we must work for it."

W. Lee showed he had lost none of his wit by making several droll remarks which greatly pleased the audience. One was the comment, following his praising of the Singing Cadets, that "It's just wonderful what music can do for you once in a while..." He told of missing an important political convention at Hillsboro to attend the meeting here. "However," he stated, "here they shoot guns in my honor; there they shoot at me!" Speaking on the importance of milk to the nation he said, "I know, I started out on milk."

After the governor's speech the representatives of the press were introduced. Following this came the introduction of many notables from throughout the state and nation. Among these was Major S. M. Decker, great-grandson of General Sam Houston.

Next came the principal speaker of the occasion, J. L. Kraft of Chicago, president of the Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corporation and one of the foremost men of the dairy industry in the entire United States. He won the hearts of his audience when he started off with "When I work and work and can't work any more, then I'm moving to Texas." Mr. Kraft traced the growth and development of the cheese industry from 1913 to the present time and stated that Texas has everything to make it the greatest dairy state there is. He was cheered by the delegates when he told them that he considered Texas people the "most Americanized" people in the Union. He was also applauded when he told of turning down the offer of a fabulous amount from Russia when the Soviet Government had tried to employ him to develop the dairy industry in Russia, "because they didn't have enough money in the whole place to persuade him." Kraft ended his talk repeating the Governor's statement that "You can't legislate prosperity; you must work for it."

During the afternoon the delegates heard addresses by Prof. K. M. Renner, head of the dairy manufacturers department of Texas Technological College; F. W. Atkinson of Manhattan, Kansas; and W. L. Stangel, head of the department of animal husbandry at Texas Tech. The delegates then made a tour of the A. & M. dairy farm where they surveyed pasture projects, inspected the college dairy herds, and reviewed some of the research projects which are under way at the college.

Presbyterians Start Drive for Funds To Build New Church

The Presbyterian Church of College Station is conducting a campaign to raise funds to erect a church building for the 600 Presbyterian students of A. & M.

At present the church services are held in the chapel of the Y. M. C. A. building where they have been held since the church was first organized 12 years ago. The aim of the church for several years has been the erection of a building of its own.

The fund for the new building has already been started, and has accumulated to more than $1,000. This is just a beginning, however, since the cost of the building to be constructed is estimated at $75,000 and will include an auditorium to accommodate 500 besides additional rooms for an educational department.

Rev. Norman Anderson, the present pastor of the church, has been the pastor since 1928 when the church was first started. In the beginning there were only 22 members. Now there are over 100 members exclusive of students. There are nearly six times as many students as faculty members listed in the church rolls.

Sheep-Goat Day Is Held Here Monday

A group of approximately 50 farmers attended the one-day Sheep and Goat Day at Texas A. & M. Monday to learn more about the business of raising those animals as a supplemental crop on their farms.

Most of the discussions were informal and members of the college staff answered questions asked by the raisers.

D. W. Williams, head of the Animal Husbandry Department, pointed out that the session was not intended to put the farmer into the sheep or goat ranching business but rather to help them find a crop to replace those which they have had to curtail.

Speakers included Prof. Williams and A. K. Mackey, both of the Animal Husbandry Department; Dr. R. D. Turk, S. P. Davis and J. M. Jones, all of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.
