Election of the social secretary, Longhorn editor, and Town Hall manager will be by balloting in the rotunda of the Academic Building throughout the day, and will follow the procedure used last year.

Election of the two junior yell-leaders will follow a more complicated system, instituted and found successful last spring. It is as follows:

Any classified sophomore desiring to run for junior yell-leader must first secure a petition signed by 100 students (not necessarily sophomores). Next these petitions, duly signed, must be turned in to E. L. Angell at the Publications Office.

Then, on the night of April 22, at 7 o'clock in Union Hall, will be held a sophomore class meeting at which all those who have duly filed will make their appeals to their class, following which the class will by ballot select six men capable of filling the junior yell-leadership.

Thursday night, April 25, a joint meeting of the sophomore and junior classes will be held. The six top men named in the sophomore primary will make appeals to both classes, following which both juniors and seniors will take part in voting to select from the six the two who will serve as next term's junior yell-leaders.
