Mothers' Day—

Company commanders' mothers or sweethearts pinned flowers on each cadet in the company Sunday morning prior to the formal review, which was held promptly at 10 a. m.

A surprise presentation featured the review when Cadet Colonel Woody Varner of Cottonwood presented Colonel George F. Moore, Commandant for three years, who has been ordered to Hawaii for foreign service, with a beautiful watch as a token of appreciation for his services to the cadet corps.

Varner also presented a watch to John King, warrant officer of the Military Science Department, who has been on the campus more than 20 years. "Sergeant" King as he always will be known by Aggies, also has been ordered to foreign service.

The good citizenship medal of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, was presented by F. M. Law, president of the A. & M. Board of Directors, to Cadet Colonel Varner.

The Albert Sidney Johnston saber was presented to cadet major Arba L. Norton of San Antonio by Mrs. S. T. Downs of Abilene, president of the Texas Department of the Daughters of the Confederacy. The award is based on high ranking in military science and tactics.

The United States Field Artillery Association medal for the outstanding member of the junior class who is a member of the Field Artillery regiment, was presented by cadet master sergeant James P. Gilet of Okmulgee, Okla., a distinguished student in the School of Engineering, by Dean Gibb Gilchrist.

The United States Coast Artillery medal for the outstanding member of the junior class in the Coast Artillery unit was presented by Dean F. C. Bolton to Glenn E. Reynolds of Albany, Texas.

Following the review a memorial service in honor of the mothers of Aggies was held in Guion Hall. Dr. Walton urged the mothers to return to their homes and pray that their sons would not be called upon to participate in the present war raging in Europe. The Singing Cadets presented several numbers, and Colonel Varner welcomed the parents to the college.

Sunday afternoon, following dinner in the college dining halls, was devoted to inspection of dormitories and other buildings on the campus; an exhibition and competition drill by the Ross Volunteers, honorary military organization, with Bob Little, junior of F Coast Artillery, winning the elimination contest; and the final event on the program was a Band concert in the triangle near the President's home by the Aggie Band under direction of Col. Richard Dunn.
