TEXAS A. & M.

By W. W. Lackey

Editor's note: The following poem was written by W. W. Lackey, Austin, Texas, following his visit last week to the A. & M. campus in connection with the Farmers' Short Course then in session.

I went to Texas A. and M.
And looked it over, staff and stem.
I saw ten thousand Texas youth
Who came in clubs to learn the truth.
They swarmed the place and felt at home
In learning more of Texas loam.
They felt the school belonged to them
And prized it as a priceless gem.

I saw the work of the Triple A
Where hundreds labor every day.
I saw efficient engineers
In training there for bright careers.
I saw the soldier, scholar, statesman,
Preparing well for better salesman.
Two blades of grass instead of one
Result from training there begun.

A personnel of staff and stem
That thoughtful men will not condemn,
Efficient, yet of humankind,
Who render service they can find;
A school, in fact, that meets a need,
In useful training takes the lead,
Contacts the people where they are
And lifts them up both near and far.

I saw the Aggies on the field
A royal battle there to wield.
I heard cadets, ten thousand strong,
Swell out the welkin with their song.
I saw the campus, felt the spell
That comes to all who there may dwell.
I marvel not at such a place
Where loyal spirit grows apace.

From Now On

Robert E. Nisbet, Field Artillery Band, senior and editor-in-chief of the 1940-41 Battalion, who will begin his editorship with next week's issue. George Fuermann, associate editor of the coming long session's Battalion, has served as editor-in-chief during the first semester of summer school while Nisbet attended R.O.T.C. camp.

Juke Box—

is the fact that the "official" garb for the arrairs is sports clothes. Harrison reiterated that the basic cause for originating these dances is to allow the student body, faculty members, and College Station and Bryan residents to become better acquainted and provide a regular source of entertainment for summer school students. Originally the dances were to have been held every other week, but they quickly proved to be so popular that they have been held every Saturday night.

Freshmen Agronomy Course Reinstated If Twelve Enroll

Quite a number of students are interested in the fact that the Summer School Committee has authorized the reinstatement of Agronomy 105, "The Fundamentals of Crop Production" for the second term of Summer School, beginning on July 22nd.

At the opening of Summer School the Summer School Committee ordered this course withdrawn for the second six weeks, and a number of students asking about the course have been told that it would not be available. The number of requests for this course coming to Director Winkler and the Department of Agronomy have been large enough to indicate that the course is needed. Therefore, the Summer School Committee has just authorized the Department of Agronomy to enroll students in this course on Monday, July 22nd, and to teach the course provided twelve students enroll.

It is hoped that all of those interested in this course whose programs require that this course be secured this summer help phase this information on to others planning similar programs.

of possibility that the plan will be rejected."

The college stands ready to contribute almost 400 acres of land to the project. Both Civilian Aeronautic Authority officials and United States Air Corps officials have inspected the location of the present College Airport and have found the place suitable for the construction of the proposed new airport.

Included in the proposed airport will be two hangers, each 150 feet long and 100 feet wide; a two-story office and classroom building, 120 feet long and 48 feet wide; and a shop building, 68 feet long and 50 feet wide. Three runways will be constructed, all of which will be stabilized as the soil is especially adaptable to that purpose. The longest runway will be 5,500 feet long and wind-direction will permit this runway to be used 76 percent of the time. The other two runways will be 4,200 and 3,300 feet long respectively. All runways

"Might Be More Than One Variety Of Fish!" - Hensel

By Margaret Ann Williams

A campus eyesore will soon be "Gone With The Wind!"

The bare triangle in front of Bism Hall (officially known as Saunders Park), heretofore noteworthy only as the site of occasional band concerts, will soon become one of the beauty spots of the campus. Rapidly nearing completion in the center of the park is the only fountain on the campus, the gift of the class of '38.

The fountain is 18 feet across and is built of concrete and cast stone. Marked with two bronze tablets, the chief decorative feature of the fountain will be the fact that it is to be illuminated. Special equipment will be installed which will light it from under the water and multi-colored light will play on the fountain. These lights can be regulated and will be turned on for special occasions according to the wishes of the corps.

At the present time construction is being held-up by the delay in the arrival of the electrical equipment. This, however, should arrive in the near future and it is expected that the fountain will be completed and in operation within a few weeks.

The fountain will be immediately surrounded by four panes of St. Augustine grass and the remainder of the triangle will be graveled. Several concrete benches will also be placed on the plot.

In answer to an inquiry as to whether or not there would be fish in the fountain, F. W. Hensel, head of the Landscape Art Department and directing the construction of the fountain, replied, "Our greatest fear is that there will be more than one variety of 'fish' in the fountain!"

A new department at the University of Georgia will teach all phases of dramatic and theatrical activity.

will be 150 feet wide in paved area and will have a total width of 500 feet.

One of the principal aims in securing the new airport is secured.

A total of 10,078 Harvard College alumni subscribed $107,089 to Harvard Fund last year.
